Drastic Auto Traffic Restrictions Proposed

Mileage Cut Ordered For Bay Area Drivers

By PAUL PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal agency today demanded that the Bay Area's motorists cut their mileage 84 per cent by 1977, to meet federal clean air laws and called for limiting gas sales as an essential means of enforcing the cut.

The Environmental Protection Agency, in an order affecting metropolitan areas throughout California, proposed that the state not permit gasoline distributors to deliver in May through September any more fuel than was distributed during fiscal 1972-73. No rationing requirement was proposed specifically for individual motorists.

The power of the EPA to enforce such stringent smog controls, however, was challenged yesterday by the state Air Resources Board. Its five members emphatically stated the federal government had neither civil nor criminal authority to impose its smog controls on the state or to require the state to implement them.

The EPA estimated that rationing in the Bay Area would cut the amount of gasoline available by up to 59 per cent. This would be triple the reduction in mileage proposed this spring by the state, in its antismog plans.

The combination of reduced gasoline availability and improved public transit availability should achieve the 84 per cent cut in private travel, the federal report said.

The EPA's "notice of proposed rule making" said the controls will be adopted officially by the federal agency on Aug. 15 after a series of public hearings throughout the state. The Bay Area hearings will begin at 9:30 a.m. Aug. 8 in the ceremonial courtroom of the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. The agency's regional administrator, Paul De Falco, will accept written comments received before Aug. 4 at his San Francisco office, 100 California Street.

The EPA also proposed virtually banning daylight use of motorcycles from May to October, the heavier smog months of the year. The agency said the ban on two-stroke motorcycles is necessary because such engines emit 31 times as much exhaust hyrocarbons per mile as will a 1975 auto.

"Prevention of increases in the number of motorcycles" also was proposed, by limiting the number of 1974 registrations to the 1973 level.

Such "prevention" and other control measures, including gas rationing, were left to the state to detail in a plan to be submitted to the EPA by Oct. 1.

The state previously filed its smog control plan with the EPA, but it was disapproved June 15 because it was filed too late for review.

The EPA noted its deadlines

County Defends Test For Rabies

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County officials today lifted their veil of secrecy on the health laboratory's failure to diagnose rabies in a prized stallion six weeks ago and said it was not due to negligence but rather the result of working with a poor specimen from the animal's brain.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney summed up the county conclusion saying "the lab test is only as good as the specimen used."

His comments followed a meeting this morning with Dr. Theodore D. Hiatt, chief of county medical services, and Mabel Croughan, director of the county's health lab.

It was the first word from county officials on the lab test which erupted into controversy Wednesday.

As reported by the Independent-Journal, failure by the health lab to diagnose rabies in the prized Arabian stallion resulted in delay of antirabies treatment for several persons, including the horse's owners, Mario and Eva Ghilotti of the Mar-Ghi Arabian Ranch in Nicasio.

Maloney said testing the rabid horse's brain involved taking microscopic tissue samples from a portion of the brain known as Ammon's Horn, which is about the size of a peanut.

The tissue specimen is placed on slides and coated with a chemical substance that will turn virus carrying antigen fluorescent, identifying it as rabies.

When an animal has died of the disease, the entire brain is infected, Maloney said. In the case of the Ghilotti's stallion, Co-Pilot, the horse was destroyed before the disease had spread through the brain.

Matters were complicated when the brain was cut in several pieces before being sent to the health lab, where technician Sandra Kaddas had difficulty identifying Ammon's Horn.

She tested tissue from a portion of the brain and got a negative reaction, Maloney said, and herein lies the problem.

While she tested one portion,

Nixon Got Illegal Donation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American Airlines acknowledged today that it made illegal contributions of $75,000 to President Nixon's reelection effort. It charged that Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach, solicited the money.

George A. Spater, the airlines chairman, said in a statement that he made cash contributions in five installments beween November 1971 and March 1972.

"I knew Mr. Kalmbach to be both the President's personal counsel and counsel for our major competitor," Spater said. "I concluded that a substantial response was called for."

The period was before the April 7, 1972, deadline when the law compelling full disclosure of all campaign contributions and disbursements took effect. The General Accounting Office (GAO) has accused the Nixon re-election campaign of obtaining almost $1.7 million in unreported cash contributions before April 7.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox revealed the American disclosure and called on other firms that had made similar contributions to come forward and identify themselves.

Common Cause, the citizens lobbying organization that has been seeking to force the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP) to disclose its pre-April 7 finances, said the American contribution "is but another example of the corrupting influence our present system for political fund raising has on campaigns."

"I call on the directors of other companies to inquire of their management to determine whether similar contributions were made and if so, join American Airlines in voluntarily disclosing such contributions to the special prosecutor," Common Cause chairman John W. Gardner, a former director of the airlines, said in a statement.

Kalmbach said American was "among those from whom $100,000 was expected," Spater claimed.

Under federal law, corporate contributions to political campaigns are barred. "Some of the contributions came from corporate funds," Spater admitted.

"At my direction American officials made the payments of $75,000 in cash in five installments from November, 1971 through March 1972, of which the first four, totalling $20,000, came from non-corporate sources and the last $55,000, paid in March 1972, came from corporate sosrces."

The Nixon re-election committee is alleged to have re-

Wholesale Price Index Takes Jump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With farm prices increasing at a record pace, wholesale prices shot up 2.4 per cent in June, the biggest monthly increase in more than 22 years, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.

Unemployment fell below 5 per cent for the first time in three years.

The jobless figures for June dropped to 4.8 per cent, the BLS said.

The Labor Department's statistics bureau said the June wholesale price report did not reflect President Nixon's June 11 price freeze since the prices were checked before the ceiling was clamped on. The July Wholesale Price Index (WPI) to be released next month should reflect the freeze.

The 2.4 per cent wholesale price increase last month was the biggest jump since a 2.5 per cent increase in January, 1951 and continued the sharp climb in wholesale prices since President Nixon's Phase III controls began in January.

Wholesale prices now have risen 47 per cent over the past year, an alltime record for a 12-month period.

Biggest reason for the sharp jump in the WPI was a huge increase in the prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds.

Prices of farm products went up 7.0 per cent, an alltime record since the present series of statistics were started in 1947. The previous high was a 6.8 per cent increase in March of 1947 and again last December.

The BLS said the higher farm prices were led by a 23.4 per cent increase for hay, hay seeds and oilseeds, a 19.1 per cent increase for grains, and a 16.3 per cent jump for eggs. Livestock prices went up only 2.7 per cent while live poultry prices increased 2.3 per cent.

The BLS said grain prices now have risen 89 per cent over the past year.

Wholesale prices for consumer foods went up 2.2 per cent in June while wholesale prices for other consumer goods went up 1.7 per cent, the highest in nearly 23 years.

Industrial commodity prices increased 0.9 per cent last month, the lowest rate of advance in five months.

The BLS said that the 4.8 per cent unemployment rate in June, down from the 5.0 per cent rate of the previous three months, was the first time since June, 1970 that joblessness had fallen below 5 per cent.

While unemployment was declining from 4.38 million to 4.26 million workers, the number of workers with jobs increased by 650,000 to 84.67 million, the BLS said.

City Manager Of Cotati Resigns Job

Salfen jumped the gun on the youthful council majority, who had planned a special meeting for Monday to fire him.

Plans to fire Salfen from his $1,400 per month job were strongly opposed by older councilmen Frank P. Dolinsek and Herbert Winter and led to a recall election against the other three councilmen, set for Sept. 4.

Salfen, who is openly bitter, said he will join the recall movement with full force. "Who knows, I might even run for council in November," he said, anticipating success of the recall.

The surprise resignation brought little comment from the council except to call for applications for a successor and to set the cutoff date at Aug. 8.

Salfen contends that Police Chief Thomas Gray is already assured of the job. "The first day they interviewed Tom Gray they had it all cooked up," he said.

Mayor Geoffrey Dunham and councilmen Annette Lombardi and Stephen Laughlin had charged that Salfen refused to carry out directives of the council and worked against their efforts to improve the city.

"Less capable and less diligent individuals justify their own failures by ascribing the success of their competitors to chicanery, unethical business practices and bad faith," Salfen said in response. "The City of Cotati is frought with many problems and I would like to extend an invitation to the citizens and a sincere wish for success in their endeavors to eradicate this problem and to reinstate Cotati to its true status as a peaceful community."

Salfen said he began job hunting two months ago, but has not yet taken a new position. He said he hopes he can get a job near Cotati so he can participate in the recall movement and be eligible to run for council. "That should give some people something to think about," he said.

Salfen has been city manager for three years. He submitted his resignation two years ago after a dispute with the council before the young people were elected, but rescinded it later.

Nuns Protesting War Arrested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four nuns of the Sisters of Notre Dame order were arrested inside the White House today when they broke away from a tour group to kneel, pray and sing in protest to the U. S. bombing in Cambodia.

The nuns, wearing casual clothing, were turned over to metropolitan police and charged with unlawful entry.

Two of the four —Sr. Beverly Bell, 46, and Sr. Katherine T. Coor, 31, —gave Baltimore, Md., addresses. The others, listing no address, were Sr. Christopher Lamb, 35, and Sr. Judith LaFemina, who also gave no age.

Also on Sunday, at 2:30 p.m., the Marin Music Chest will present the second concert in its summer series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, featuring pianist Christopher Eschenbach and the music of Shubert.

Two Critically Injured In Leap To Flee Fire

Four people were injured, two of them critically, while jumping out of a third-story window onto mattresses today to escape a fire in a Mill Valley apartment building.

Mill Valley firemen said that the blaze in apartment No. 6 at 20 Shelley Drive was probably started by a wall heater and had caused $50,000 damage.

Most seriously injured were Stephanie Miller, 27, of the Shelley Drive address, who suffered multiple injuries, and Suzanne V. Berns, 31, of Los Angeles, who suffered cuts on her scalp, a possible head injury and an injured right arm. Both are reported in critical condition at Marin General Hospital.

Also being treated at Marin General are Alan Friedman, 28, of the Shelley Drive address, who suffered a burned right hand and smoke inhalation, and Jim Berns, 31, of Los Angeles, who cuffered cuts on his arm and chin.

Two firemen were also injured fighting the blaze. Fireman Edward Allison, 33, was treated at Marin General for cuts on his left hand. Assistant Chief Henry Pierroz, 48, suffered burns from hot tar on his face and hands, but did not require hospital treatment.

Mill Valley police officer Robert Kinney said he went to the 10-unit apartment building at 5 a.m. after neighbors across the street reported seeing someone jump out of a top floor window.

Kinney said he found that residents of the burning building had dragged mattresses out onto a concrete patio to try to break the fall of the four from the apartment. Firemen said that judging from the extent of the injuries, Suzanne Berns and Stephanie Miller had probably missed the mattresses.

The Berns were houseguests of Friedman and Miss Miller.

Two engines and 15 firemen took about 20 minutes to contain the flames which gutted Friedman's apartment, burned a hole in the roof over the apartment, damaged outside storage sheds for the apartments and burned two cars in nearby carports. The building is on a steep slope with parking opposite the top floor.

Firemen said that there was also water damage in three apartments on the second floor but said that residents were still going to be able to live in the building.

Fire Capt. Robert Harder said that firemen have been unable to talk to the victims to get details on how the fire started.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Negotiate Peace

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The government of President Lon Nol announced today it was willing to negotiate peace with deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk and said it would accept the imposition of an immediate cease-fire.

The statement outlining a six-point peace plan was made by Foreign Minister Long Boret in the presence of diplomats, including U.S. Ambassador Emory C. Swank. The rumble of nearby attacks by American warplanes shook the windows of the conference hall and occasionally drowned out Long Boret's words.

The U.S. has long brought pressure on the Lon Nol government to work for a cease-fire but Lon Nol has refused.

Crash Kills 10

SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon command reported a record low in Communist truce violations today but said 10 people were killed in a helicopter crash and heavy fighting near Kontum in the Central Highlands killed 57 Communists.

A command spokesman said the helicopter, a UH1 Huey utility craft, crashed for unknown reasons today 157 miles north of Saigon.

All 10 persons aboard were killed, the spokesman said, and all were Vietnamese.

Porno Raid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police seized more than three-quarters of a million dollars in hard-core sex films and arrested eight men yesterday in the largest porno raid in the country since the Supreme Court's new ruling on obscenity.

The police raid took place at Arrow Films Inc., said to have links with organized crime.

State Supreme Court Justice George Roberts, who came to the scene to view the movies, said they had "no redeeming social value."

Dog Experiment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force wants to buy 200 beagle puppies with their vocal cords tied off and then make them breathe environmental pollutants.

But Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says there are "literally thousands of dog lovers like myself who won't stand quietly by while it happens."

However, an Air Force spokesman said yesterday he could not explain the exact purpose of the experiments. "It is reasonable to assume the pollutants will be those produced by airplanes," he said.

Lawford Denial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor, separated from Richard Burton, arrived here from New York yesterday, prompting a denial from Peter Lawford that he is "the villain in the piece."

Lawford said he feels "affection and compassion" for Miss Taylor, but is so preoccupied by his own marital problems that he could not be romantically involved with her, as has been reported.

He called rumors that he was shielding a relationship between Miss Taylor and his son, Christopher, 18, "ridiculous."

Chile Overhaul

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — President Salvador Allende overhauled his government yesterday, picking seven new ministers for an all-civilian cabinet designed to move quickly in dealing with social and economic crises.

It was one of the most extensive reshuffles since Allende, the first elected Marxist leader in Latin America, took office in 1970.

He said his government would begin action immediately to carry out a 14-point emergency plan requiring "great sacrifice and effort" to combat problems that he said earlier had taken Chile to the verge of civil war.

Survival Food

SEOUL (UPI) — A British couple rescued after drifting for 117 days on a life raft in the Pacific said today they survived on rain water, 30 turtles, eight seagulls and six sharks.

Michael Bailey, 41, and his wife, 32, were picked up by a South Korean fishing boat on June 30.

A newspaper said it talked by radio with skipper Suh Jungil and the Baileys, en route to Pusan. The ship is scheduled to dock early next month.

Bailey and his wife had left Panama on Feb. 26. Their yacht sank after colliding with a whale March 4.

They pieced together two life rafts and began drifting.

Consulate Opens

LENINGRAD (UPI) — To loud applause from about 100 American and Russian onlookers, official American representation returned to the city of Peter the Great today for the first time in 56 years.

A U.S. Consulate General, housed in a four-story pale orange building, was officially inaugurated by Assistant Secretary of State Walter J. Stoessel Jr.

Stoessel said the opening of the new consulate—and that of a Soviet Consulate General in San Francisco two weeks ago—was "symbolic of a long and often difficult effort to improve U.S.-Soviet relations."

14 Die In Attack

TAPACHULA, Mexico (UPI) — Army units combed the Sierra Madre mountains near this southern Mexican town today, seeking a band of guerrillas that attacked a railroad station yesterday and killed 14 soldiers.

The guerrillas, armed with high-power rifles, fled into the mountains after a two-hour battle with troops.

A police spokesman said four guerrillas also died.

EGIL (BUD) KROGH
Five-minute appearance

Fifth Taken In Ellsberg Testimony

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former White House aide Egil (Bud) Krogh, who once accepted responsibility for the Ellsberg burglary, took the Fifth Amendment yesterday before the grand jury investigating the crime.

Krogh spent only five minutes before the "Watergate West" grand jury, made a brief statement to reporters that took less than a minute, then left.

Although the grand jury proceedings are secret, it was apparent from the in-and-out appearance by Krogh, the climactic witness before the panel, that he had refused to testify. The Los Angeles Times today quoted sources close to the case as saying Krogh took the Fifth Amendment.

He was expected to be the last witness of significant importance until the grand jury reconvenes Sept. 4, when District Attorney Joseph Busch indicated he will seek criminal indictments.

Krogh, in his letter to President Nixon resigning from the government, said it was his "overwhelming desire to take responsibility" for the burglary at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the White House "plumbers."

Three Dead, 75 Burned In Explosion

KINGMAN, Ariz. (UPI) — A railroad tanker of propane gas exploded yesterday, and the resulting fireball engulfed a factory, half a dozen businesses and part of a major highway, and burned scores of people.

Three firemen were killed and 75 persons burned. Several of the injured were not expected to survive.

Military helicopters and airplanes were pressed into service to carry the injured to hospitals in Phoenix, Ariz., and southern Nevada.

Screaming victims, their flesh charred, staggered through the disaster area, survivors said.

A portion of U.S. 66 covered by the fireball's fringes was still closed today because of leaking storage tanks.

"There are gas pockets still there and all it would take is a spark," said an officer of the Department of Public Safety.

The fire occured when fuel being transferred between a railroad tanker and a siding storage began burning atop the railroad car.

A crowd of spectators gathered to watch firemen fight the blaze.

"First the fire was outside the tank, it seemed to be shooting up under pressure," said Ray Kirn, a police dispatcher who saw the disaster from about 200 yards away. "Then it got low and went to the tank. That's when it exploded."

Shirley Black Named To Board

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Shirley Temple Black, who as a child movie star was the nation's top box office attraction of the late 1930s, has been elected to the board of directors of the Del Monte Corp.

Mrs. Black more recently was a United Nations delegate and now is a special assistant to the chairman of President Nixon's Council on Environmental Quality.

Interest, Mortgage Rates Hiked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Your savings account can now earn more interest, but the interest you will pay for an FHA or VA insured home mortgage is also about to go up.

These were the results of a series of government actions announced yesterday. Debate has already begun as to whether they will be good or bad for the average citizen and the economy.

Both the National Association of Home Builders and the National League of Insured Savings Associations denounced the actions as inflationary.

Effective immediately, the government allowed commercial banks to raise interest on passbook savings accounts from 4.5 to 5 per cent. There were similar increases for certificates of deposit.

Savings and loan institutions were told they can soon raise their passbook rate from 5 to 5.25 per cent.

The ceiling on interest for mortgages backed by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and the Veterans Administration (VA), will go from 7 to 7 ¾ per cent. In the case of FHA, this won't happen until Congress completes the technicality of renewing the government's mortgage authority. Congress went off on its Fourth of July recess, letting this expire June 30.

James T. Lynn, secretary of housing and urban development (HUD), says the FHA increase will be good for the average citizen because it will keep FHA money available for home buyers.

He said it will also reduce the number of "points" involved in the sale of a home. A "point" is one per cent of the mortgage. It is a one-time fee charged by lenders to circumvent the interest rate ceiling. It is paid sometimes by the seller, sometimes by the buyer and sometimes both. In any case it, in effect, raises the cost of the house.

HUD estimated that buyers, under the new FHA and VA rates, will end up paying about the same amount because of the reduction in points which it expects—but which it does not actually control.

George C. Martin, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the government actions were "inconsistent with the anti-inflationary battle."

The National League of Insured Savings Associations said they would "add fuel to the inflationary fires already burning too bright across the nation."

Plan Suggested For Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The United Nations Association of San Francisco yesterday proposed again that Alcatraz Island be turned into a monument honoring the founding of the UN here.

The association said in a letter to a Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton that its Board of Directors approved the same idea offered in 1963.

were set by Congress in the 1970 Clean Air Act. The agency's previous attempts to extend the deadlines have been rejected in court suits brought by environmentalists.

The EPA notice said that attainment of the standards for oxidants automatically will insure attainment of those for carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide.

The EPA's plan includes requirements to establish bus and car pool lanes on freeways and major streets, reductions in offstreet public parking, limits on construction of new parking, and mandatory inspection and maintenance of private cars and light duty vehicles.

Even with all of these measures, however, national standards for clean air cannot be met without gas rationing, the plan said. "Under the Clean Air Act, the agency has no choice but to include in the plan a measure (rationing) which can achieve the standards by 1977, even if it appears impractical and unworkable."

The plan noted that a one-year extension of the compliance date to May 31, 1978 is possible.

The plan also proposes immediate large-scale purchase of additional buses, transit fare reductions, jitney service, special parking privileges for car pools, prohibiting onstreet parking by nonresidents, additional bicycle lanes, and free bus tokens instead of free parking privileges for employees.

The agency said use of private cars never will be cut significantly just by making other transportation more attractive. Only "some form of restraint on or disincentive to vehicle use" will cut auto use, it said.

The plan also proposed that the state provide a computer to match up employees in bus and car pools. Noting that the average car carries 1.5 persons per trip, the plan said cars "represent the largest unused pool of transportation capacity currently available."

The plan also suggests "that many short trips now made by car could be made by bicycle or walking."

The EPA invited comments on the possibility of requiring privately as well as publicly owned parking facilities to reduce the number of spaces by 20 per cent.

Stationary sources of air pollution also were cited in the plan for tougher controls. These include dry cleaners, users of industrial solvents and paints.

Turning to aircraft emissions, the plan said further study is needed on means to curb this source of pollution.

Limiting the number of takeoffs and landings or the percentage of seats occupied on flights were suggested as possible steps.

The state Air Resources Board yesterday defied the orders even before the federal agency made them public for the Bay Area.

"Is the EPA purporting to send the governor to jail if we don't implement these plans? chided board member R. Robert Brattain, "or will they jail the Legislature for not enacting legislation to implement them?"

The board met in Sacramento in a special session on the EPA's proposals released last month calling for gas rationing and other tough controls in Los Angeles and five other South Coast counties. The proposals could halt personal car use there by 1977.

The board's counsel, William Simmons, backed its defiance of the EPA by objecting the federal agency is treading on the "sovereignty of the state." He said he has asked Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger for an opinion on the "serious constitutional questions."

The board also objected the EPA was inconsistent to limit the use of cars and at the same time require owners to install expensive and sophisticated anti-pollution devices.

It declared "severe" problems would result if car use were curtailed without plans and money for other modes of transportation.

The board also protested that rationing gas would be unworkable. It would prompt blackmarketing and illegal stockpiling, the board said.

The EPA's proposals to try to curb driving by creating congestion and parking problems also were criticized by the state board.

The EPA is scheduled to issue its final proposals for the six Southern California cities on Aug. 15.

Boat Tips, Mill Valley Man Drowns

I-J Special Report

PACIFICA — A Mill Valley man drowned yesterday when his small skiff capsized while he was salmon fishing off Linda Mar Beach in San Mateo County.

The dead man was identified as Darryl G. Graves, 29, of 39 Lomita Drive.

The San Mateo County coroner's office said that his 16-foot boat overturned about 5 p.m., apparently because it got too close to the surf line.

Funeral was pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley.

Melee Was At People's Park

The name of the Santa Venetia park at which a Fourth of July melee occurred during which two sheriff's deputies were injured was incorrectly identified in yesterday's Independent-Journal as Pueblo Park because of an error in a sheriff's department report.

The fracas was at People's Park at Adrian and Rosal ways.

The Gallinas Village Improvement Association sponsored a Fourth of July picnic at Pueblo Park on Hacienda Way, at which there was no disturbances.

BUGGING

ceived $1.7 million in nonreported cash contributions before the April 7, 1972 deadline when stricter campaign fund reporting laws went into effect.

Spater said he took full corporate responsibility for the decision to turn over the funds to the Committee to Re-Elect the President (CRP), but he called for reform of the campaign financing laws.

"Based on my knowledge and experience in the business community, I believe that such pressures have been regularly applied by campaign solicitors, and that contributions made by corporate officers and employees are directly or indirectly financed out of corporate funds to an extent that creates a significant national problem."

Under law, corporate officers and employees are allowed to give funds to political campaigns even though the corporation itself is barred.

"We need stronger campaign financing laws. The present laws are hypocritical," Spater said in a statement released by the airline.

In another Watergate development, chief U. S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica granted limited immunity from prosecution for Gordon Strachan, former aide to ex-White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, and ordered Strachan to testify before the Senate Watergate committee.

Strachan, 29, resigned in April as general counsel of the U. S. Information Agency. Ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III testified before the committee last week that Strachan told him that he passed logs of the wire tapping of Democratic headquarters to Haldeman.

The New York Daily News on July 3 quoted sources as saying Strachan plans to plead guilty to one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Ronald Rotunda, a Senate lawyer, told Sirica that special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox did not oppose the grant of immunity.

Ford Ends The Convertible Era

DETROIT (UPI) — The convertible era ended at Ford Motor Co. at 10:40 a.m. yesterday when a 1973 Mercury Cogar with a ragtop rolled off the Dearborn assembly line.

Only General Motors will offer the soft-top on 1974 models. Chrysler and American Motors wrote the finale on that chapter of U.S. automotive history a few years ago.

The peak convertible year was 1965 when 510,693 were built. Although total car sales continue an upward climb, convertible sales have declined every year since 1965, accounting for 72,000 units in 1972.

The last Ford-built convertible was delivered off the assembly line to Floyd Moore, an automobile collector from Chicago.

Two Arrested In Drug Probe

Fairfax police yesterday afternoon assisted federal narcotics agents in arresting two Fairfax men on suspicion of possession of cocaine for sale.

Fairfax police chief Charles Grasso said Rocky Stewart Smith, alias James Dahl, 25, and George Prall Schwartz, 28, were arrested at their home, 148 Madrone Road.

Chief Grasso said the two men, alleged to have sold cocaine to undercover agents, were taken to San Francisco, where they will be charged in a federal court.

RABIES

Mrs. Kaddas froze an untested tissue sample from another part of the brain.

It was this untested tissue sample that the state last week found to be carrying rabies virus, touching off controversy over the county's original test.

The state's test was prompted when a second horse owned by the Ghilottis became ill and was destroyed last week on the Rust ranch in Willits where it had been taken for breeding.

A test of the second horse, a mare, proved it was rabid and it was decided to retest the stallion's brain tissue.

After the state on Saturday discovered the error, the Ghilottis and two Point Reyes Station veterinarians, John E. Zimmerman and Donald E. Hansen, who worked on the sick stud, began antirabies treatment on Sunday —six weeks after exposure.

The Rusts began their treatment about the same time. Their contact with the rabid mare was more recent.

Mrs. Croughan, the lab director, said today she felt Mrs. Kassas' handling of the stallion's test six weeks ago "was the best that could be done" given the condition of the horse's brain when it was received.

She said tissue from suspected rabid animals is not automatically sent to the state health lab in Berkeley for verification as earlier had been suggested by some.

Both she and Dr.Hiatt urged more careful handling of suspected rabid animal tissue (brains) before it is submitted to the health lab.

State public health officials in Berkeley, meanwhile, said today there has never been a recorded case of man contracting rabies from a horse.

One case is on record in California of a man catching the dreaded disease from a cow which has the same kind of crushing but not deeply penetrating bite as a horse.

A spokesman said the incubation period in humans varies but is generally put at 30 days, after which treatment diminishes in value if in fact the person has contracted the deadly virus.

Petaluma Park Hit By Vandals

Vandals struck yesterday at a park in Petaluma and at two businesses, police reported.

Officers said newly constructed restrooms at La Tercera Park were damaged when blue paint was splattered on the interior and a firecracker was set off. Damage was estimated at $50.

Vandals at the Washtub coin laundry at the Washington Square Shopping Center damaged a chance machine by kicking it. Loss was estimated at $75.

Reed Price, owner of Golden West Glass Co., 516 Petaluma Boulevard South, reported vandals had clogged all the locks in the building with putty. He said the damage may be related to current problems with the glaziers union.

DESMOND MACTAVISH

Desmond S. Mactavish of San Francisco, a former San Rafael resident and Marin County land developer, died yesterday in Vallejo of a heart attack. He was 56.

Mactavish was driving home on Interstate 80 from a friend's funeral in Napa when he was stricken, and was dead on arrival at a Vallejo hospital.

Born in Shanghai, Mactavish was educated at the San Rafael Military Academy and Stanford University. He served as a lieutenant in World War II.

A member of the Pacific Union Club, the San Francisco Golf Club, and the Lagunitas Country Club of Ross, Mactavish also was involved for many years with lay organizations in St. Raphael's church of San Rafael.

He lived in San Rafael for more than 30 years before moving with his wife to the Pacific Heights area of San Francisco two years ago.

Mactavish was a consultant on the development of the large Holiday Inn complex in Terra Linda in the late 1960s.

He is survived by his wife, Jean Ingalls Mactavish; two sons, Desmond Mactavish Jr. of Monterey and John Kevin Mactavish of Munich, Germany; a daughter, Laurie Mactavish of Florence, Italy, and three grandchildren.

Soviets Report Drop In Births

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's birth rate, already low despite frequent campaigns urging larger families, is continuing to drop. And for every four couples who marry, there is a fifth couple getting a divorce.

Figures published this week by the Central Statistical Board reflect a problem that has dogged the Soviet Union since World War II, when the country lost 20 million population.

The latest figures, covering 1971, showed a national population of 246,293,000 and 4,371,549 births—or 13.6 births per 1,000 population, far below the world average and below the 1970 Soviet rate of 17 per 1,000.

'Musty' Water Said Harmless

A peculiar taste in Marin Municipal Water District water in the northern part of the district in recent weeks is both harmless and temporary, a district spokesman said today.

The "musty, mildewy" taste reported by customers in San Rafael, San Anselmo, Terra Linda, Lucas Valley and Marinwood is caused by blue green algae in the district's Nicasio reservoir which serves those areas, according to James T. Farnkopf, manager of water treatment and distribution.

He said the district is trying to eliminate the algae by treating the reservoir with copper sulfate. The taste is caused by the tiny dead plants. Both the algae and unpleasant flavor should be gone within a week, he said.

Larkspur Extends Building Bans

The Larkspur City Council adopted two urgency ordinances last night extending moratoriums designed to control development within the city.

By 4-to-1 vote the council extended the building moratorium on the steep hillside west of Magnolia Avenue and the open space moratorium on the North Ridge within the city's limits.

The first measure covers all land zoned R-3 west of Magnolia Avenue with slope of 10 per cent or more. The original moratorium was passed May 16 covering a 49-day period which expired yesterday.

The new urgency ordinance will extend the building ban for four months in which time the city's general plan and its slope policy provision may be completed.

The ordinance was introduced to cover eight months but some councilmen thought that period too long.

Councilman William G. Fleckles suggested that 90 days might be adequate time for completion of the general plan but Councilman Robert H. Lee pointed out that the need for the additional extension grew out of an inadequate time limit in the first ordinance.

The original ordinance involving 89 parcels zoned for multiple development had been cut from four months to 49 days to accommodate Fleckles.

The four month figure was approved last night when Fleckles gave his support saying the council should relieve the moratorium at the first possible opportunity.

Opposed was Councilman Neil R. Brixon who said, "The property owner has to be given some consideration."

The North Ridge measure extended the moratorium on development in that area including Little King Mountain and the south side of Baltimore Canyon for eight months. Fleckles cast the lone dissenting vote.

He said the council was only inviting delay of the general plan by not coordinating the lengths of the moratoriums.

The original North Ridge ban was approved March 7 by a 4-to-0 vote when Fleckles was absent. Brixon and Mayor Alfred J. Malvino had expressed reluctance to the moratorium at that time but last night's extension was voted with little comment.

Both measures needed at least four votes to pass as urgency ordinances.

The council acted to look into possible extension of the slope ban west of Magnolia Avenue to R-1 zoning. In an agenda item added at the meeting, the council asked staff to determine what parcels might be covered by the addition of R-1 zoning.

Lee said that with an eye to obtaining lower density and with consideration of a slope policy in the near future, the council should consider adding the other parcels to the moratorium.

The council will take the matter up July 18.

Council Pay Will Go On '74 Ballot

The Larkspur City Council last night decided that the matter of salaries for councilmen should be decided by the voters.

The council set the vote on a $50 salary per meeting with a $150 limit per month for next April's municipal election.

While action taken by the council on salaries would not have become effective until a new council was seated after April balloting, City Atty. Joseph A. Forest advised that action by the voters will be effective after 30 days.

An ordinance was ready for introduction which would have given councilmen $150 per month. It drew initial opposition from Councilman Neil R. Brixon who had opposed previous salary measures. He said the money could be better spent to raise police and firemen wages.

But after Mayor Alfred J. Malvino pointed out that he and Brixon are the two councilmen whose positions will be considered at the April election, he spoke for the measure citing six other Marin cities that pay at least $150 per month.

Councilman Robert H. Lee called the $150 figure fair and reasonable and said, "If the citizens know they are paying $150 a month they will watch councilmen a little more closely."

After that statment, Brixon said the measure should go on the ballot if citizens are really to be considered.

The council chose the $50 per meeting with a $150 maximum per month as an alternative to requiring attendance for a flat $150 each month.

Councilman William G. Fleckles cast the lone dissenting vote after expressing support for the ordinance granting the pay hike.

SIGN — Voted 3-to-2 (with councilmen Joan Sestak and Lee opposed) to grant a one year extension to Minorca Sign Co. for a directional sign in the Industrial Way area.

APPLICATION — Voted 4-to-1 (with Lee opposed) to grant a sign application of Baskin Robbins in Larkspur Square. Council voted unanimously that the logo "31" should be white rather than pink on the sign.

Cagney Will Be Honored For Work

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Cagney will make his first public appearance in 12 years next March to receive the American Film Institute second Life Achievement Award.

The first award was given last year to director John Ford at a banquet attended by President Nixon. It is for those "whose talents have in a fundamental way contributed to the film making arts, whose accomplishments have been acknowledged by scholars, critics, professional peers and the general public, and whose body of work has stood the test of time," George Stevens Jr., the institute's director, said in making the announcement today.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Joe E. Brown, 81, Dies; Entertained 60 Years

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cavern-mouthed comedian Joe E. Brown, one of the nation's best-loved entertainers, died today. He was 81.

Brown had a history of heart trouble and also suffered a stroke several years ago. He had not performed in several years.

A family spokesman said the comedian died at his home in Brentwood early this morning.

The bandy-legged Brown with a rubbery face and a squeaky voice emanating from a mouth which was compared often to the Grand Canyon, was known as much for his good works in private life as he was for his entertainment career which spanned more than 60 years.

Brown, who was capable of portraying great pathos as well as comedy, had a fabled career that began when he ran away from home in Holgate, Ohio, to join a circus at the age of 9.

He became a skilled acrobat and spent 25 years on the wires and trapezes. Brown had a brief fling at professional baseball in his teens and he maintained his interest in the game and other sports.

He and his wife Kathryn, married in 1915, had one natural son, Don, adopted three other children, and took in a number of foster children over the years.

The great tragedy of their life came in October of 1942, when Don, a captain in the old Army Air Corps, died in the crash of a plane he was piloting near Palm Springs, Calif. He was 25 years old.

Brown was one of the first Hollywood celebrities to entertain frontline troops in World War II. The Army rewarded him with a Bronze Star, its highest civilian award.

Crash Victim Is Better But Serious

Dennis M. Dougherty Jr., 23, of Novato, injured in a motorcycle accident Wednesday was reported in improved condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he was transferred from Novato General Hospital.

The youth, who suffered cuts, broken vertebrae and a head injury in a crash on the Ignacio Boulevard offramp to Highway 101, was said to be in serious condition today.

Price Freeze Causes Some Bare Spots

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shoppers are finding a few bare spots on supermarket shelves, particularly in the produce department, but there are no widespread shortages and the careful buyer can find all the food he wants.

An Associated Press survey of major retailers yesterday showed that some stores are no longer stocking particular brands or sizes. Many officials said that if the total price freeze is continued past the 60-day limit announced by President Nixon June 13 there would be problems. Everyone expressed concern over the shape of the Phase 4 economic program, now being hammered out by administration officials.

John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said yesterday that the council plans to remove controls from the food industry as soon as possible. He denied that the freeze has caused the industry to fall into "a critical state or chaos."

The National Association of Food Chains said many of its 250 members were discontinuing certain items and selling others at a loss. The association declined to name the stores involved, but said a chain in the Southwest is unable to get potatoes from its supplier; New York retailers are removing tomatoes, potatoes, carrots and radishes from sale; and some Midwestern stores are discontinuing flour, pork and beans and frozen strawberries.

William Gross, public affairs manager for Safeway, the second largest chain in the country, said, however, that his company was in a "fairly good position."

Virtually everyone has some complaint about the freeze. Consumers say prices are still too high.

Frarmers say that although their prices aren't frozen, wholesalers won't pay more than they can charge. At the same time, the farmers say, feed grain prices have jumped, quadrupling in some cases.

Wholesalers claim they have to pay more, but can't pass on the increase. They say it costs them more to package and provide goods than they can make. Retailers say they can't get certain items because the farmer isn't producing them and the processor isn't processing them.

The Nixon administration yesterday expanded the embargo on exports of key agricultural products. Last week, the government limited the export of soybeans and cottonseeds and their products. Yesterday's announcement involved 41 kinds of agricultural products, including edible oils, animal fats and livestock protein food.

Ross Council Considering Buying Land

The Ross Town Council is considering buying a 1.3 acre parcel of land previously bought by Ross Valley Flood Control Zone for its ill-fated concrete-lined ditch through the town.

Stymied by court actions to halt the flood control project through Ross, the flood control zone has declared the Hamer property surplus, and offered it to Ross for $66,250.

Councilman Roy Farrington Jones said today the land is "the last remaining, centrally located piece of property suitable for tennis courts" in Ross.

The land is the vacant piece by the post office parking lot, the remainder of the Cypress Glen subdivision. Former owner Margaret Hamer was involved in a long and bitter dispute with the town over her application for garden apartments on the site — the argument went through the courts for years, and the state supreme court finally ruled against her about 10 years ago.

Jones said the price of the land is high because part of it is in Kentfield, and zoned for apartments.

"Access to the Kentfield portion would have to be through Ross," said Jones, "and we are not particularly keen on the traffic."

How the land would be paid for hasn't been decided yet, although Jones indicated private subscriptions may be solicited for tennis court construction.

The Ross Town Council will discuss purchasing the land at its meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Ross town hall.

Forecast Of Success Proved Accurate For Le Camembert

GUY FRANCOZ
At the front

There's a little bit of "I told you so" pent up in everyone, so it's always a source of satisfaction when I forecast success for a new restaurant to see it come to pass.

My score isn't 100 per cent, but when something like Le Camembert in Tamalpais Valley comes along the odds are so heavy in its favor that only a catastrophe could cause an error in judgment. In short, this restaurant started off well, it has continued to thrive over two years of operation and undoubtedly will go on doing so for many more years — barring something like an earthquake, tidal wave or the state deciding to reroute Shoreline Highway through its dining room.

What also gives me pleasure is that reports passed on from those who have eaten there have been about as uniformly favorable as I have ever received on a restaurant.

Words like these aren't stated to make Messrs. Guy Francoz and Gilbert Duquesne swell out their chests, but to point out to them the enormous responsibility that goes with establishing a reputation. Once you start something you have to go on with it.

What caused it all? No one thing certainly, but a combination of things. It's a place with more than just a touch of elegance. Its furnishings and decor are a satisfaction to study. This doesn't mean it's a dinery for tilted noses. Quite the contrary — it's just enough on the casual side to leave you comfortable. If Guy, who happens to be the front man in this operation, is the one to greet you, you'll feel at home before you reach the dining room. That's very important and it's reflected down the line.

Of course when you look around you're bound to feel that you should be getting something pretty nice in the way of food to go with it. You will.

Try the escalope of veal with a mushroom cream sauce, or the sweetbreads. Or try the escargots — you'll like the way they are served. I'm rather fond of them myself and take some pride in being able to extricate them about as gracefully as anyone. This skill wasn't acquired suddenly and many's the gastropod I've jimmied far back in the shell without ever getting to taste its savoriness. At Le Camembert it doesn't happen, because there are no shells. Each mollusk is daintily ensconced in one of six cuplike indentations in the service plate. They taste every bit as good — but gee whiz, there's no chance to show off.

Food here is French and that department is under Gilbert, who definitely lives up to what is expected from a French chef.

Prices? No higher than at any comparable restaurant. You can pay as high as $140 for a bottle of Chateau Mouton and add on extras to the meal if you want to live it up. But regular dinners with pate or soup, salad, dessert and coffee are still in the $4.50 - $7 range.

Le Camembert now has an additional dining room (the place is larger than it appears) and total seating capacity is something like 200. This enables Guy and Gilbert to take on groups of 20, 30 — even 40 or 50 on a Friday night.

Good taste extends into the bar and lounge. The bar itself has the finest copper top I've ever seen, and Ray Brunal, who presently oversees this department, tells me it has to be polished everyday.

TAKE AWAY the last two words from Peacock Gap Country Club and the eating out public might get an entirely different conception of this lovely place in eastern San Rafael.

Say what you like, "country club" seems to give rise to the feeling it's a place exclusively for members with nominal or limited food service. True, Peacock Gap has long since given up serving individual dinners, but for groups it has one of the largest facilities in Marin County. Often it has taken on 500 and sometimes even more.

And it does serve lunches everyday except Monday, with a very fine menu prepared by new chef Mark Wyman, who looks something like a young Viking. Mark is from the Midwest and his father was a chef before him, so he's very much at ease in his job. Nothing seems to faze him, no matter how many tables he has to prepare for, or the type of entree.

His regular lunch offerings include steaks, brochettes of beef, chicken, sole, omelets, hot and cold sandwiches, crispy salads and often a special or two — nicely prepared, nicely served.

Peacock Gap is five miles out of downtown San Rafael. But that is a mere jaunt for most Marinites, who range from Sausalito and Tiburon to Novato for lunch. San Pedro Road is now a smooth, scenic, divided thoroughfare most of the way, and work is now going ahead to make it so for the rest of the way to Peacock Gap. Many Marinites do make lunching there a regular thing and on some days there's quite a bit of action. But the place is big enough and charming enough to handle even more.

I would like to see Peacock Gap return to serving dinners — at least on weekends. That day may come again.

AUTHENTIC CANTONESE food is the specialty of a newly opened Chinese restaurant in San Rafael. It's called Chopsticks and is located at 508 Third Street, where Old Vienna used to be, across from the United Market.

The owners, young David and Irene Chan, commute to Marin from San Francisco. They have been in the restaurant business before but with relatives. This is their first venture on their own.

Combination dinners are served, with the number of dishes increasing according to the number in your party, in accordance with the popular Chinese restaurant custom. But there is a good selection of a la carte items — several chicken, beef and pork dishes, also abalone and mushrooms with oyster sauce and some others. All this is also prepared to take out. There are 99-cent and $1.49 lunch specials.

David plans to expand the menu with Cantonese specials from time to time and has already put forth one of his own creation called "silmye." This is a sort of pork meat ball in combination with six vegetables in a paste shell. It's very tasty, but I can't guarantee that it will be available at all times as it must be prepared in advance. Ask for it anyway. If it's on hand you'll really enjoy it.

Chopsticks is open for lunches and dinners Mondays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. (lunches from 11 to 3) and on Sundays for dinners from 4 to 9 p.m.

Construction At Old Playland Is Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Developer Jeremy Ets-Hokin's $46 million condominium project at the former Playland at the Beach site in San Francisco was approved unanimously yesterday by the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission.

The project with 660 condominium units plus a three-story shopping area is the highest density development considered by the commission, said Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director.

But no precedent for similar strip development in a beach area can result because the site is bounded by Sutro Heights and Golden Gate Park, he said. And the Great Highway separates the now-razed amusement park landmark from Ocean Beach.

"This is the last hurdle," said Ets-Hokin after the 12-0 approving vote. He said his Seal Rock Co. would move as fast as possible to start construction with completion expected in early 1976.

The commission, created by Prop. 20 in last November's election to preserve California's coastline, sharply protested Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of $250,000 in budget funds for staff operations.

"The action is the height of financial irresponsibility," said Robert Mendelsohn, San Francisco supervisor.

He said processing the heavy volume of development permit applications will be delayed and cause economic loss to the project's sponsors.

He said Reagan vetoed vital commission funds for expanding its staff when the state was collecting $1 million a day in new sales taxes with an existing state surplus of almost $1 billion.

The commission unanimously approved Chairman Melvin B. Lane's proposal to address a protest letter to Reagan.

A letter of thanks will be sent to the Assembly and Senate for adding the $250,000 to the state budget during conference committee consideration.

In other action the commission approved a Port of Los Angeles dredging project required for construction of a new LASH shipping terminal. The commission staff said the proposed dredging would reduce pollution in the sediments of the channel.

Corte Madera Will Use Reserve For Sewer Work

The Corte Madera Town Council last night decided not to impose a hotly contested $20-a-year sewer service charge to bail the town's sanitary district out of fiscal deep water.

Instead, reported Mayor Holmes S. Norville, the council decided to use the district's reserves to do $150,000 worth of work on old sewers to stop rainwater overloading them.

Norville said the council, in another of its series of budget hearings, approved the sanitary sewers section of its fiscal 1973-74 budget for a total of $269,038.

The sanitary district's budget shows an ending balance of $305,226 as of June 30, this year, with anticipated revenue in the coming year of $127,088 (including the amount produced by levying the same 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation as the current year.)

Spending for the coming year, including the $150,000 on sewer rehabilitation, totals $333,546, leaving the district with an estimated $98,768 in the coffers by next June.

Norville said councilmen debated imposing a sewer service charge -- which had been recommended by the town's sanitary commission — but concluded it would be better to go to the voters for permission to raise the tax rate if it turns out to be required.

The town's sanitary district got into problems when the town council borrowed $150,000 from its reserves last year to finance the town's redevelopment budget. The $150,000 had been earmarked for the sewer rehabilitation.

The town council (which is also the redevelopment agency and the sanitary district board) hasn't yet worked on the redevelopment agency 1973-74 budget, but the proposed total of $157,039 includes $18,000 in interest for the loan from the sanitary district.

Norville said only three members of the public attended last night's budget hearing, which was continued to next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall, when the fire department, park and recreation and redevelopment agency budgets will come up for review.

Last night the council also reviewed the police department's budget. Cuts, according to finance director Frank Bigley, included a requested $4,100 new police patrol car.

Additions to the $287,172 total proposed was an extra $8,000 for police overtime, and $7,500 for overtime already worked, bringing the salary total to $260,122.

Nixon Near On SEC Chairman

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Ray D. Garrett, a Chicago securities lawyer, will be nominated by President Nixon to head the scandal-scarred Securities and Exchange Commission, White House sources say.

The nomination is expected to be announced Saturday. Garrett, 52, served on the SEC staff from 1954 to 1958.

G. Bradford Cook resigned as SEC chairman in May after a grand jury in New York reported evidence that he had modified an SEC complaint against financier Robert L. Vesco, a heavy contributor to President Nixon's reelection campaign. No charges were brought against Cook, who denied wrongdoing.

Gallinas Has Budget; Tax Rate Same

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board last night adopted a $41,375 budget for 1973-74.

The action will leave unchanged the district's tax rate of $1.02 per $100 assessed valuation, according to board secretary Marguerite F. Clark.

She said the new spending program is up from last year's total expenditure of $38,000. The approved budget for 1972-73 had been $34,500.

Mrs. Clark said that increases in assessed valuation and an anticipated $3000 in revenue through new recreation programs enabled the tax rate to stay unchanged.

The bulk of this year's budget will be used for park maintenance, the summer recreation program, and a senior citizens program, she said.

The board also approved its new Joint Powers agreement with the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

It also voted to replace a wooden fence and drinking fountain which had reportedly been damaged by vandals in Pueblo Park.

Napa Blaze

NAPA (AP) — A three-alarm blaze roared through the Napa Ecological recycling center yesterday. There were no injuries.

Belvedere Council Adopts New Budget Of $429,149

The Belvedere City Council unanimously approved last night a 1973-74 budget of $429,149, up $19,756 over last year's.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the council, with all members present, made only minor changes in the $427,570 budget he had proposed last week.

He estimated that if spending is held to the level approved last night, there will be no increase in this year's tax rate of $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation. But he said that at the Aug. 6 council meeting he will propose some additional capital outlay expenditures which could lead to a hike in the tax rate.

In general, SB90 limits the tax rate to this year's or last year's figure, which was $1.70 per $100 assessed valuation in Belvedere. But Cavalli said the bill does allow some increase based on a formula involving growth in population and increases in the consumer price index.

Among possible capital outlay projects which Cavalli said he will propose are reconstruction and resurfacing of Bella Vista Avenue at an estimated cost of $55,000 and city fire main improvements, for which he had no estimates of costs.

Because of an increase in assessed valuation, the $1.80 tax rate could raise $378,500 in property taxes in 1973-74, compared to $369,000 this year. Other sources of income include federal and state funds, fees and fines.

In approving the budget, the council also agreed to a package of wage and fringe benefit increases for city employees which will cost the city another $15,000 annually.

The budget allows for a 7.5 per cent salary hike for four public works employees, a 5 per cent increase for five policemen and 7.5 per cent increases for two office workers.

Police Chief John W. Jaeger's salary would also go up $802 from $16,506 this year, while Cavalli's salary would increase by $926 from $18,528.

Victim Of Plane Crash Asking $161.5 Million For Injuries

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Tamalpais Valley flier injured in the crash of a small plane last month, yesterday filed a $161.5 million suit against the estate of his flying instructor and the manufacturers and sellers of the plane.

The attorney for Paul W. Broadhust, 24, of 22 Morning Sun Avenue, alleged that Broadhust suffered permanent, crippling injuries in the crash, that killed instructor Bernard B. Helfand, 57, of 240 Loma Avenue, Tiburon. Broadhurst is still in a Napa County hospital.

The plane, a single-engine Yankee AA1B, spun onto a rural road near Fairfield, Solano County, on June 4.

The suit filed in San Francisco Superior Court alleges that the American Aviation Corp. trainer plane was designed defectively and that the manufacturer knew of the defect and failed to correct it, according to Michael J. Kutsko, Broadhurst's attorney.

The two men had taken off from the Smith Ranch airstrip in San Rafael and were flying to the Nut Tree in Vacaville.

Irving R. Stracener, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, told the Independent-Journal today that he has reported to the board that Broadhurst told him in a hsopital interview that Helfand was demonstrating spin entry and recovery, when the plane engine quit. Broadhurst said he was unable to restart it, and the plane hit the ground while Helfand was trying to pull it out of the spin, Stracener reported.

Streptococcus Is Top Disease Again

Streptococcus infections again led the list of communicable diseases with 54 reported last week in Marin, according to county health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht.

Also reported were 23 cases of gonorrhea, two cases of infectious hepatitis, and one of syphilis.

Alioto Inks Ban On Nude Dancers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It's official: the nude "bum"bump-and-grinders" in North Beach's nighclubs will have to don their bikini bottoms.

Mayor Joseph Alioto yesterday signed an ordinance making bare-busted and barebottomed dancers and waitresses illegal and only another page in the city's entertainment history.

And the topless dancers will have to be no closer than six feet from the nearest ogler.

Dollar Drop Continues World Over

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar, already at an all time low, fell even further today in Europe, Hong Kong and Tokyo in the face of a flood of rumors that the United States would devalue the dollar for the third time this weekend.

The London Evening Standard said a major development to deal with the monetary crisis could be imminent and may involve linking European Common Market currencies to gold instead of the dollar. It said the situation had reached crisis dimensions and that "market men were talking of a crunch being imminent —possibly this weekend."

The dollar bought less than four French francs in Paris today for the first time in 16 years. It reached an all time low against the Japanese yen and American tourists in Hong Kong got less than five Hong Kong dollars for $1 today for the first time in history.

It fell to new lows in Frankfurt and Zurich and there were reports that soon it might buy only two West German marks —and it would buy four less than a year ago. In Oslo the dollar changed hands at 6.16 Norwegian kroner, a 20 per cent decline since the dollar was devalued 10 per cent in February.

European market men have insisted that the dollar was undervalued and that there was no logical reason why it should continue to sink. They have blamed it on the Watergate case and a lack of confidence in U.S. leadership, on the increasing U.S. balance of payments deficit, and on U.S. failure to move resolutely against inflation.

The United States last devalued the dollar on Feb. 12 when Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz announced a 10 per cent devaluation immediately, the second devaluation in 14 months. The first devaluation came when international exchange rates underwent a major revision in December 1971 at the Smithsonian meeting in Washington.

Since February the dollar has declined steadily and West Germany was forced to revalue its mark upwards. Theoretically that should have helped the dollar but the steady erosion continued and a new monetary crisis began building up.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

The Metric System Has Its Advantages

Habits deeply ingrained are difficult to change, and a certain amount of resistance is almost certain to develop against any new scheme that disrupts long-established customs.

So it is with the proposal to convert California mathematics and science textbooks to the metric system, which State Superintendent of Schools Wilson Riles posed in a talk at Dominican College in San Rafael last month.

First reaction is that of shock and a feeling of insecurity. Being asked to give up the yardstick, feet, pound and gallon is like being deprived of apple pie, hot dogs and ice cream.

But eventual changeover to the metric system appears inevitable, and the sooner we accept the fact the better. In fact, certain segments of American society such as the scientific, medical and engineering worlds are already dealing in grams, meters, and liters to a certain extent.

With the conversion already in process, the primary issue is the rate at which conversion should be completed so as not to disrupt the nation's industry and economy, which is still largely geared to pound, feet and gallon.

The advantages of the changeover, as pointed out by Dr. Riles, are many. It would put us in step with the rest of the world because the United States is the only major industrial nation which still clings to the cumbersome and obsolete system of measurements that require computations in odd numbers instead of in clean increments of 10 and 100.

The nation's independent business proprietors are in favor of a 10-year plan to convert the American weights and measures to the decimal-based metric system. A survey by the National Federation of Independent Business Inc. shows that nationwide, 51 per cent favor the change, 41 per cent oppose, and 8 per cent are undecided. In California the favorable vote was even higher — 59 per cent in favor, 34 per cent opposed, and 7 per cent undecided.

As we gradually become exposed to the metric system, the advantages will become more evident, and resistance should diminish. Needless sizes and types of products could be eliminated, American goods would receive better reception in foreign markets, and we would no longer need to remember how many feet are in a mile, how many pounds in a ton, or how many ounces in a pound.

"There is nothing sacred and not much logic in the present, customary system of measurements used in the United States," Riles pointed out. He is confident that children can adjust quickly to the metric system.

The biggest resistance will be in the minds of adults, who are so accustomed to the present measuring system that giving it up would be like losing a part of the American heritage.

Beauty queens would no longer be described with the classic 36-24-36, but in time, even this could be replaced by the metric description of 91-61-91, with no permanent damage to our national well being.

State GOP Suffer From Mess Created By CREEP

By RUS WALTON

Some Republican bigwigs in this state whistle in the dark about Watergate. They pretend it will not damage the future and the fortunes of the GOP.

Theu whistle in their own ear; it will not go away soon. The stupid sins of Watergate will be visited upon Republicans for a time to come. Although there is a flood of aversion toward all politicians, it is the GOP that must bear the brunt of that mark of Cain.

Thousands of Republican workers know that. State Sen. John Stull, R-San Diego, knows it, too.

STULL FEELS STRONGLY, and outspokenly, that Republicans must make a hard appraisal of Watergate. "Otherwise we can expect the demise of the two-party system. Then, ultimately, without checks and balances, we can anticipate the end of our form of government."

Prior to his special election to the Senate, Stull was an assemblyman, chairman of the Assembly GOP caucus, and head of its 1972 campaign committee.

"I became something of an expert on CREEP — The Committee to Re-Elect the President. CREEP is not the Republican party and never was. We owe no loyalty whatsoever to those who used our party as a pragmatic, unprincipled attempt to insure their own power and influence."

STULL ALSO LASHES out at the White House palace guard, calling it a "band of high-paid advertising men who have an arrogant ignorance about politics and middle America."

"There was a peculiar, pervasive and paranodial attitude within that group. In their headlong effort to pile up an astronomical, but largely meaningless, popular vote for their candidate, they ruthlessly slashed off President Nixon's coattails and cut down lesser Republicans across the nation.

"NIXON'S RE-ELECTION was a virtual certainty ... it was a glorious opportunity for not one but many Republican landslides. But, CREEP was not remotely concerned with such details as a Republican congress or state houses and legislatures."

Stull recounts how the Assembly campaign committee worked for two years to recruit attractive candidates in 1972. In many districts, he claims, the outlook for victory was good.

"THEN CAME CREEP. I have never encountered such a gaggle of petty dictators in my life. The final blow was that they organized and implemented the incredible operation on election day that required Republican workers to get out any Democrat who might vote for Nixon, with no regard for the rest of the ticket."

Included in Stull's list of GOP candidates who were squashed by the CREEPs are former assemblymen Charles Conrad and Dick Barnes and challengers Ron Del Principe and John Conlan. Conlan sought to defeat Assemblyman Ken MacDonald, D-Ventura.

"AS MACDONALD says, he never had a precinct organization until CREEP came along and did the work of getting out Democrats who also voted for him."

Stull spits it out: "CREEP's sordid outrageous mess — the combination of the Watergate disgrace and the condemnation of our state to the Moretti miasma — makes it a pleasure for me to totally repudiate those people.

"The Committee to Re-Elect the President is not the Republican party any more than Ted Kennedy at Chappaquidick is the Democratic party."

WHEREIN LIES salvation? Stull says the President "must engage in a monumental housecleaning and a reaffirmation of those transcendental principles which bear no relationship to the tawdry expediency ... of CREEP."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Experience should teach us to be most on our guard to protect liberty when the government's purposes are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded rulers. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning but without understanding. — Louis D. Brandeis.

Ecumenical Group Gets Water Variance

A newsworthy item on Hilarita has not appeared in print ... namely the emergency variance to our water moratorium which was granted to the Tiburon Ecumenical Association on Wed. June 25, by the Marin County Water Department.

Based on Hilarita average water useage from 1965-1969 which was 23 acre feet of water, (60-90 occupants), the M.C.W.D. has granted the use of the same number of outlets (for 500 occupants). The assumption is that being NO increase in the number of outlets, there will be NO increase in water useage. Who is to be complimented on this rather unique way of reasoning??? This variance has been granted at a time that thousands of property owners are denied the use of their land because of a so-called water shortage ...

No One Is Above Law, Not Even President

No man in the United States is above the law, not even the President of the United States. The censurability of a lowly sharecropper should be equal to that of the President under our system of jurisprudence. I should like to remind the honorable Senate Watergate Committee to heed well the combined wisdom of two of our former Presidents.

"Truth will prevail where there is pains taken to bring it to light." — George Washington.

"Patriotism means to stand by the country. It does not mean to stand by the President or any other public official save exactly to the degree in which he himself stands by the country. It is patriotic to support him insofar as he efficiently serves the country. It is unpatriotic not to oppose him to the exact extent that by inefficiency or otherwise he fails in his duty to stand by the country.

"In either event, it is unpatriotic not to tell the truth — whether about the President or anyone else — save in the rare cases where this would make known to the enemy information of military value which would otherwise be unknown to him." — Theodore Roosevelt.

I do not believe that Nixon has served his country well. I oppose him because of his arbitrary and capricious cynicism regarding his possible involvement in the Watergate affair. I think that the righteous might of the American people should oppose him too.

We Should Be Proud Of Stirring Heritage

This is to express our appreciation to your paper and especially to Associate Editor Bryce W. Anderson for the assistance rendered the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks No. 1108, Wilkens Post No. 37 American Legion and Tamalpais Post No. 72, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States during the preparation, planning and presentation of the Flag Day ceremony held on the Magnolia Terrace of the Elks Lodge on Sunday, June 10, 1973.

It was in great part due to this effort that this year's tribute to our Flag was a most successful event attended by an increasing number of Marin County citizens desirous of having an occasion and place to honor the Stars and Stripes, the symbol of these United States of America, our history past and present and of this Republic for years to come. We do more than pay tribute to a banner. We salute a beautiful symbol of a Democratic nation and a free people. Our Flag has given heart, hope and strength to Americans ever since the first American flag was unfurled, the Grand Union, in 1775, heralding the birth of a new nation. It has flown in times of trouble and in times of triumph and it flies today as a sign that Americans, proud of their country's stirring heritage, are determined more than ever to carry the American dream forward.

New Stop Signs Are Causing Accidents

In view of rising automobile accidents and injuries within our county, I am compelled to write and make reference to a hazardous situation.

In the last few days the City of San Rafael has erected "stop signs" throughout the Terra Linda Valley in a dangerous and careless manner. My main reference is to signs posted on Freitas Parkway, which were installed June 26, causing two auto accidents with at least two injuries. The accidents were caused by motorists not being informed of traffic changes thus panic stops occurred causing the accidents.

The city could solve this problem by purchasing some portable signs indicating "PREPARE TO STOP" and posting them until such time as proper lettering of the area is completed. Another solution would be to give advance notice in your newspaper in the same manner you give notices on highway conditions and proposed work.

Indian Grateful For Marin Contribution

I crave the hospitality of your columns to pay public tribute to readers of your newspaper for their altruistic spirit and concern for humans everywhere.

You were good enough to print in your issue of Jan. 12, 1973, a letter from Mrs. Ruth Heller, who is a good friend of our Study Circle. Being aware of our great need for used books and used greeting cards, she had appealed to your readers to send as many of these to our library. (The greeting cards are to be processed with scissors and paste and sent to children's hospital).

I want you to know that we have received as many as six responses to that appeal — two of them anonymous! And we are expecting more. For this we are immensely grateful to your readers who have taken time and trouble to send these to us. We salute you for the graciousness of your readership which proves to us that the heart of America is still sound — Vietnam and Watergate notwithstanding.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Americans are becoming bored because their lives are too soft, according to a Berkeley, Calif., philosopher who sounds a bit bored by the whole thing.

He says hardship elicits joy. Especially, we say, when it's being endured by the other fellow.

To give your life meaning, all you filthy rich should trade places with us deserving poor.

Nobody is more boring than an affluent philosopher who tells how happy you'd be if you were underprivileged.

Hard work never hurt anybody. Philosophers should try it some time.

Both Sides Have Much To Gain In Winding Up The Cold War

WASHINGTON — The expressed opinion of some commentators is that the Brezhnev-Nixon summit was long on generalities and short on specifics, and that talk about the cold war coming to an end is just rhetoric.

I dissent. I think such an estimate is inaccurate and misleading. The cold war isn't over, but very significant moves are being made in that direction.

THE CLIMATE MUST first be created before the cold war can be terminated. The Soviet summits are creating that climate.

The cold war is not going to end all at once. A start has to be made and the Soviet summits have made a very substantial start.

It is foolish to suggest that everything is going to be just dandy from here on. It is harmful to keep contending that we are witnessing nothing but cosmetics. Both of these assertions are wrong, and they are harmful because they generate wishful thinking and hopelessness.

I THINK THAT an accurate description of where we now stand in the cold war is well expressed in words which Winston Churchill once used to describe the then state of World War II: "We are not at the beginning of the end, but we are at the end of the beginning."

And that is quite a way to have come.

THIS DOESN'T MEAN that the Soviet Union is in any way abandoning its Communist ideology or will cease trying to undermine weak governments in the hope they can be replaced by Communist or left-wing governments.

It doesn't mean that the United States is in any way abandoning its democratic ideology or will cease trying to aid governments which want to retain their freedom and independence.

It doesn't mean, as some blind revisionists insist, that there never was a basis for the cold war except in the imaginations of President Truman, Dean Acheson, President Eisenhower, John Foster Dulles and the overwhleming majority of the U.S. Congress.

AS THE NEW YORK Times points out, "Stalin initiated the cold war during 1944-1948 by imposing Communist rule over Eastern Europe, using his military forces there to override the desires of the Eastern Europeans."

But what Soviet leader Brezhnev and President Nixon and the Europeans have now done is to recognize that the cold war has reached an unproductive stalemate and that neither side is benefited by its continuance. Both sides are accepting the status quo because neither has the will to change it. The Soviet Union sees it cannot move into Western Europe. The Western Europeans see they cannot unseat the Soviet-imposed Communist governments in East Germany and Eastern Europe.

HENCE THERE IS a solid beginning toward detente on the premise that the Soviet Union and the West have much to gain by mutually stepping back from the cold war.

This means that the cold war is moving toward an end because its participants find it no longer useful and want to bring it to an end. This is the most promising reason for believing that the Brezhnev-Nixon summits are proving productive, not just rhetorical.

We should, however, understand that the diminishing of the cold war does not mean that Communist leaders, either in Russia, China or elsewhere, mean to diminish what they call the "class struggle," which is their effort to spread communism everywhere they can, short of risking serious military confrontation.

Brezhnev made this point clear in his remark at the 50th anniversary of the Soviet revolution: "We have always held and hold that the class struggle between the two systems — the capitalist and the Socialist (Communist) — in the economic, political and also, of course, the ideological domains, will continue."

But the Soviets are not negotiating from great strength; they are negotiating from considerable weakness — economic weakness, agricultural weakness and, perhaps, political weakness as evidenced by the fact that the Kremlin is intensifying its repression within the Soviet Union.

'Control' Of Pornography Brings Government Censorship

WASHINGTON — Resolutely resisting fashion, I held off on seeing "Last Tango in Paris" until the New York critics moved on to rave about "The Devil in Miss Jones." Even then, I had to be dragged. My resistance was well-founded. "Last Tango" is depressing, in bad taste, and Time and Newsweek never would have put it on their covers if superstar Marlon Brando had not consented to simulate some naughty things in it to make himself another million.

The only other "X" movies I have encountered were one about a fat foot fetishist, which suddenly appeared on the screen at a West Virginia drive-in the moment John Wayne finished "True Grit," and one about a willing girl who bounces and giggles through the great outdoors, on a twin bill with something I don't remember at a theater in San Antonio.

WHAT THIS establishes is that I am not an "X" movie fan, and could very well live the rest of my days without witnessing another. And yet I must say the Supreme Court's latest decision on "obscenity" ranks with the most depressing single news events of recent weeks. That consciously includes the Nixon campaign scandals, for the judicial ruling "controlling" pornography has much in common with what the mismanagers in the executive branch have been doing: Taking away from a purportedly free people the right to make their own decisions.

The court-issued guidelines that put the government back into the censorship business, giving states the power to forbid and punish the printing or sale of works that offend "the average person, applying contemporary community standards." It recommended specifically which sexual depictions should be banned, in print or on film.

INEVITABLY, ITS language was shot through with adjectives which mean one thing to this man and something different to the next. Examples: "the average person. . .patently offensive. . .serious, artistic, political or scientific value. . .lewd exhibition. . ."

It explained its action in a nostalgic prose poem about State's rights. "It is neither realistic nor constitutionally sound to read the First Amendment as requiring that the people of Maine or Mississippi accept public depiction of conduct found tolerable in Las Vegas, or New York City. . ." it said. "People in different states vary in their tastes and attitudes, and this diversity is not to be strangled by the absolutism of imposed uniformity. . ."

WHERE WOULD WE be today if the same court were deciding whether the Constitution did or did not forbid public school segregation? Would that, too, be decided by the "tastes and attitudes" of the local population?

The diversity the court claims to be servicing is in fact what makes the ruling so fundamentally wrong. After the legal fraternity has coined enough money litigating the subject to make Marlon Brando seem an indigent by comparison, that diversity also is what will make the ruling unenforceable except by wholesale violation of Americans' right to free speech and expression.

FOR INSTANCE, the state of Maryland calls itself "America in miniature." For years, within its borders have co-existed colonies of the Old Order Amish, a large and active Catholic urban population and one of the world's most famous havens for commercialized lewdness, Baltimore's Block.

Baltimore itself is home to both the attorney general of Maryland and the chaplain of Johns Hopkins University. Since the Supreme Court ruled last month, the attorney general has been delighted, giving obscenity prosecutions a priority second only to street crime.

IT TAKES NO imagination at all to foresee whose "contemporary community standards" are going to prevail under the court's ruling. There is a reasonable chance that the "average persons" whom the attorney general is so eager to protect will be treated in the future to perhaps the most obscene act any respecter of our Constitution can conjure: Policemen with mauls breaking down the door to a hall on a university campus to enforce censorship.

THERE IS NO way a court, a legislature or an attorney general can decide for an entire state what is acceptable to see or read and what is not. Nor can they do so for a city, a ward and particularly not for an individual. When they try to do so, it is the most repressive, least educated "average" that will surely work to smother whatever it prefers not to see firsthand.

Look Who's Threatening Who To Conserve Water Or Else

While directors of the Marin Municipal Water District are encouraging district customers to save water and even threatening them with fines if they don't, at least four of the board members would do well to contemplate their own water meters.

According to MMWD billing records, some of the directors may be among the most enthusiastic water users in the district, consuming up to almost twice as much as other householders.

The ordinary single family home in the district uses 21,780 cubic feet of water in a year.

BUT DURING THE last 12 months, four board members — including some who pushed hardest for controls on everyone else's water consumption — outclassed the average consumer and used from 24,100 to 177,300 cubic feet themselves.

Conservationist L. Martin Griffin must love trees, flowers and gardens and apparently has plenty of all three at his Kent Woodlands home.

Griffin is the largest private consumer on the board, using 51,000 cubic feet of water last year at his home. That's nearly two times what the average home owner uses.

ANOTHER BIG USER is board president Jordan Martinelli Jr. who was billed for 45,700 cubic feet last year. It must be admitted that Martinelli, possibly after looking at his owner water bill, was opposed to mandatory restrictions on water use.

Director John M. MacPhail also beat out the average householder — at least slightly — during the last year, using 24,100 cubic feet at his home.

And board member Jack R. Felson who operates a children's camp in Forest Knolls, used a whopping 177,300 cubic feet of water during the past 12 months, more than eight times as much as the average homeowner.

YET FELSON WAS the one board member who continued to push for making waste a misdemeanor, even after his fellow board members looked like they were ready to abandon that plan.

If Felson's proposal goes through, district users would first be warned to conserve water. If district consumption figures didn't show any appreciable decrease in use, a system of mandatory restrictions would be established, with fines and the like levied against those who disobeyed the rules.

EXACTLY WHAT those rules would be is still not decided. But the board is considering telling MMWD customers to water their yards only during certain hours or on certain days.

Washing cars, sidewalks and driveways may also be prohibited. Instead, customers may be asked to do that kind of cleanup from three-gallon buckets.

IF THESE regulations become law in the district, they are going to be a big pain to most customers. It's just darned inconvenient to have to water at certain times. And, as any car washer can tell you, a three-gallon bucket is simply not as efficient as the old hose.

And it won't be surprising if those average users are pretty burned up as they cart around buckets and water their lawns after dark. They may be particularly angry when they realize that those who passed the restrictions are using from about 3,000 to 157,000 cubic feet of water a year more than they are.

(The district has no record of water service in the name of director Ronald T. Stafford, who rents a home in Sausalito.)

No Earthquake For Hollister

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The "earthquake capital of the world" was not shaken by a good-sized tremor yesterday.

Kovach, a professor of geophysics at Stanford, said two weeks ago that a "goodsized" quake, about 5.8 on the Richter scale, should rattle the oft-shaken Hollister area of central California within two weeks.

His time ran out yesterday and the Stanford prof readily admitted he was no prophet. But he stood by his statement that the temblor would hit soon on the San Andreas fault near Hollister.

When he made his suggestion June 20, Kovach was careful to call it the test of a theory and not a prediction. He addmitted yesterday that "our ability to pinpoint the time is not as accurate as we would like."

The U.S. Geological Survey is also waiting for a quake to shake the area about 1200 miles south of San Francisco. It predicted in April that a 4.5 Richter tremor would occur within a few months.

An almost imperceptible temblor measuring 2.5 on the Richter—about 100 times smaller than the USGS prediction and even tinier compared to Kovach's suggestion—struck in the Paicines are about 20 miles south of Hollister yesterday. But Kovach said it was too small for either prediction.

Kovcah said he still expected a quake because three separate lines of evidence "point to the fact that an earthquake should occur."

He said the first, on which he made the two-week statement, was the "dilitancy" theory, which holds that fluctuations in water levels in a 600-foot well drilled into the fault by Stanford scientists reflect the porosity of the rocks cracking and indicate where a quake is imminent.

The second, used by the geological survey in its first quake prediction ever, was the lack of recent activity on a particular section of the fault, which produces an average of two moderate quakes each year in the Hollister area.

Kovach said the third factor was history, which showed that two good-sized quakes occurred south of Hollister in 1961 following a period of accelerated fault creep. "If history is any guide to the future," he said, "something may happen again."

Purple Martin

The purple martin may not be man's best friend, but he's a pretty good pal. The Indians recognized long ago that the martin will protect crops by driving away hawks or crows from an area. Today martins are valued for their insatiable appetite for insects. Flies, mosquitoes, beetles, dragonflies, weevils, squash bugs, destructive moths, and even wasps have been found in their stomachs. Being gregarious, martins prefer to live in multi-apartment dwellings. Once a colony is established they will return to the same place each year. Although they will fight off larger birds, martins can be driven away by sparrows and starlings.

DO YOU KNOW — To what bird family does the martin belong?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — The Sahara Desert lies just north of the famine region.

Drug Raids May Still Hit The Wrong House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The departing chief of the federal anti-drug agency yesterday blamed two mistaken narcotics raids on improper supervision and said there is no way the government can guarantee it won't happen again.

Myles J. Ambrose, head of the now-defunct Office for Drug Abuse Law Enforcement, told a news conference:

"I don't know how I can tell you that some knucklehead wouldn't go off half-cocked in the future, and for anybody to tell you that he'd have to be a knucklehead himself."

Ambrose spoke in response to questions about the mistaken raids conducted by agents under his office's supervision on two families to Collinsville, Ill.

The agents broke into two homes which turned out to be the wrong addresses.

On another subject, Ambrose disputed allegations of John E. Ingersoll, former head of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, who had said former presidential aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman encouraged White House intervention which hampered the work of the agency Ingersoll ran.

"Mr. Ingersoll is entitled to his opinion," Ambrose said, but added that from his own experience, "Ehrlichman and Haldeman, particularly John Ehrlichman and his staff, are largely responsible for those successes we have had."

The agencies headed by Ambrose and Ingersoll and most other drug enforcement functions were merged Sunday into the Drug Enforcement Administration.

As for the Collinsville raids, Ambrose said that "one of the areas we have to be most concerned about is supervision" of the agents involved in investigations.

He said that federal drug officials are reminding agents to observe legal safeguards protecting individual rights and are reviewing the adequacy of training.

Ambrose, who was designated a special assistant attorney general to run the drug agency 18 months ago, is returning to private law practice and will open a Washington office of the Wall Street law firm of Spear and Hill.

TAM HIGH EVENT

Results Are Scored In Consumer Education Class

A two-week inservice workshop program held to evaluate the consumer education and homemaking programs offered at Tamalpais High School has been completed and results evaluated.

Community representatives, advisory committee members and school personnel discussed on an individual basis their opinions of the ways in which existing programs could be strengthened. Conducting the interviews, which began June 18, were Marcelett Henry, chairman of the Tamalpais High School homemaking department and the consumer education program, which began in January to meet the needs of students and the community; Nancy Bratt, home economist, assistant to Mrs. Henry in establishing the Consumer Resource Center at the high school, and Connie Alexander, department aide and secretary.

Monthly panel discussions on consumer topics have been given at the Consumer Resources Center since the first of the year. The seminars are open to the public and individuals may use the center's tapes, film strips and up-to-date publications by appointment. Because of the community service aspects of this service, it was assisted financially by federal funds from Part F of the Vocational Education Act.

Recommendations of the workshop participants were to expand the present homemaking and consumer education department, initiate course requirements for graduation in family life education, consumer education, child care and development. Also suggested was one semester of vocational training.

To create a new image, more in keeping with the content of the course, an alternative for the term "homemaking," with connotations of menial tasks, should be sought.

A recruitment and public relations program to bring the home economics courses to the attention of students, and the consumer education opportunities to the attention of the community was emphasized.

Three categories considered most significant were consumer education, food preparation and nutrition, and family life and sex education.

In her summation, Mrs. Henry said, "We need to attract students with learning abilities from each level of achievement. There is a place for all students in homemaking and consumer education courses.

"The original assumptions regarding student interest in homemaking classes have been outdated. New materials have been developed with emphasis on life styles, family living, sex education and consumer education."

Those participating in the discussions were Dorothy Cook, Babette Bloch, Hila Witt, members of Tamalpais High School Homemaking and Consumer Education Advisory Committee; Lotte Schiller, member of Tamalpais High School District board; Phyllis Miller, community representative, Tamalpais High School Task Force; Charles Crawford, counselor, Tamalpais High School; Betty Frost, reporter, Independent-Journal Women's Section; Helen Washington, Project Breakthrough; Dr. Judith Fabian, clinical psychologist, Tamalpais High School, and Jerry Nowell, Birthright, Inc. of Marin County.

Any former Pan American stewardess who resides in and around Marin County may join the club, said Mrs. Wynne.

Mrs. Wynne is a native of St. Paul, Minn. She was graduated from Los Angeles City College and the University of California at Los Angeles in the dental nursing program. She is also involved with the Lawyers Wives of Marin and enjoys painting, tennis, cooking and swimming.

Suggestions For Beating High Prices

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Because of increasing alarm over the rapidly rising cost of food, the California Congress of Parents and Teachers has had numerous requests for ways in which the Parent-Teacher Association may help the homemaker.

Under the direction of Mrs. Hiam Emery of Spring Valley, former consumer education chairman for the California State P-TA, a directive was prepared and includes the following suggestions for consideration: exploring the possibilities of setting up study courses in the fields of family budgeting, nutritious and appetizing low-cost meal planning, and conservative purchasing; making use of resourceful people in the local community in planning such courses — agricultural extension services, dairy councils, farm bureaus, local and/or federal departments of agriculture and school district adult education departments; encouraging the purchase of foods in season and quantity buying of non-perishable "on special" foods.

"We enocurage members to write to the appropriate sources expressing their own opinions about the rising cost of food," commented Mrs. Emery.

"Such sources would include the department of health, education and welfare; the department of agriculture; the department of consumer affairs, and the governor's office in Sacramento. We also urge publicizing the General Services Administration's Consumer Product Index which lists almost 200 publications on how to buy, use and take care of consumer products."

With regard to possible boycotts by housewives, suggested in letters received by the P-TA, Mrs. Emery noted, "Although we appreciate the thinking behind the idea of a boycott, we must remember that our membership is made up from many walks of life and to boycott any business might threaten the livelihood of some of our members."

Marin Unit Leads Fight Over Code

Members of the board of the National Council of Jewish Women have issued a statement opposing the new press censorship principles incorporated in the Criminal Code Reform Act of 1973.

Members of the Marin Section, NCJW, have taken an interest in the bill and feel partially responsible for the statement by the national organization, according to Mrs. Murray J. Rayden of Greenbrae, president of the Marin section.

"We first wrote to our national affairs chairman and to our representatives in Washington suggesting study and action after an article about its introduction appeared in the press on April 2," Mrs. Rayden said.

According to the statement released by the council, the stand is taken because the pending proposal would abridge the Constitutional right to know by prohibiting the dissemination of government information unless it is officially released by the government.

"Our section's legislative committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Gary Rifkind and Mrs. Melvin Fox plans to follow the progress of the bill closely, to keep our position before our local legislators and to encourage others to join in the efforts to insure the people's right to know," she said.

Age Is Not Big Factor

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UPI) — Regardless of age, women still like men.

This is the observation of Jeanette Riley, manager of the high-rise Hartford Terrace apartment complex for the elderly and the Muskegon Housing Commission.

The project so far has 140 units filled. Of these, 122 units will have women occupants. There are 12 single men signed up and six others come under the category of couples.

The single women outnumber the men 10 to one. The Housing Commission wants the complex balanced and has ordered the other 20 units remaining left open for single men, 62 years or older.

According to Miss Riley, elderly women spruce up and are more alert when men are around the building.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Doubting Husband Needs Course To Refresh His Appreciation

DEAR HELEN:

I was 16 and my husband 18 when we were married five years ago. It was "have-to" but "want-to" also.

However, you sometimes wonder what you've missed. I became attracted to a young man two years my junior. We had one experience, and it was pretty disappointing. We stopped speaking to each other after that.

I thought complete honesty was best, so I confessed to my husband. He hasn't let it drop. Keeps asking me about all the details, and "Sure I know you liked him better, didn't you?"

Now he's started calling me a prostitute, and when he comes home at night he asks, "Well, how were your customers today?" I think he is torturing himself believing he was "inadequate" and that's why I strayed. This isn't so, but I can't convince him, nor can I make him see that I only slipped once and I won't again — unless he pushes me into divorce.

I loved my husband, I might again, but I can't love the suspicious, jealous, hateful man he's become. Yes it was my fault — I've caused this change, but must I pay for one mistake forever? — TILL DIVORCE DO US PART

DEAR TDDUP:

If your husband could bring himself to discuss his insecurities with a qualified counselor, perhaps your marriage might still be saved.

Anyone who turns one indiscretion into a mountain of blame needs a refresher course on how to appreciate his own worth. If you can't give it to him, let's hope a therapist can. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A lot is said about the value of sexual adjustments in a premarriage live-together situation. But a "trial" makes you see other lacks more clearly too. My roommate and I just split up, after eight months — and not because sex was dull. She and I may always more or less love each other, but we won't marry because that would lead to hate.

She warned me before she moved in that she was a "lousy housekeeper." I thought I could take it, but I find that she can't change — even if we get a maid, which we couldn't afford anyway. She is so careless and sloppy that I'm appalled. She calls me a "neatnik," and there were times when I could have throttled her with the stockings she left lying around the house.

I'm a day person; she's a night person, often reading till three a.m. Our tastes don't jibe.

So there was an amiable parting. We'll date often, but we'll never be husband and wife! And we're both thankful we tried it first, before marriage and children made a bad match harder to break.

I wonder how many married couples can truthfully say they would have chosen marriage, after a year of living together first?

Let's hear it for trial or "contract" pre-marriages! — RAUL

DEAR HELEN:

I read a report by a psychiatrist which stated that the average married couple talks together only 27½ minutes per week — that is, actual verbal communication. The rest of the time they just read each other's minds or do a lot of ignoring. Could this be true? — NOT THAT QUIET

DEAR NOT:

Twenty-seven and one-half minutes a week? My husband says I can do better than that in 15 minutes, and I think most husbands would agree.

But seriously — while well-married couples manage a lot of non-verbal communicating (count the happy silences at your house and you'll see what I mean), I doubt that many are this silent — even though anthropologist Dr. Ray L. Birdwhistell (that's his real name) says his research proves the statement correct. (He monitored the homes of 100 couples who have been happily married for 15 years for his answer, but they darn sure aren't the couples I know!) — H.

Pitch Made For Inactive Physicians

I-J Special Report

BETHESDA, Md. — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has awarded a $505,000 contract to the Medical College of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia to begin a part-time residency program designed primarily for currently inactive women physicians.

Eight inactive women physicians would be enrolled in the pilot course beginning July 1, 1974. Two would take residency training in internal medicine, two in pediatrics, two in obstetrics-gynecology and two in anesthesiology, according to HEW Secretary Casper H. Weinberger.

The type and duration of the training will be determined during the first year of the four-year contract effective June 30.

The contract was authorized by the Comprehensive Health Manpower Training Act of 1971 and awarded by the Division of Physician and Health Professions Education. The Division is part of the Bureau of Health Manpower Education, National Institutes of Health. (HEW).

This project is potentially useful in retraining women physicians on active medical service as well as inducing inactive women physicians to return to practice," said Dr. Harry W. Bruce Jr., division director.

Of the 345,000 physicians in the United States on Dec. 31, 1971, 27,000 were women, 3,000 of them inactive. About 1,300 of the inactive women physicians are formally retired but some of the other 1,700 might be induced to resume practice.

ON BEING BLACK

The Traumas Of 'Market Babies'

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

"We've gone to every possible agency in several states and still have not been able to adopt a child. As a journalist you must come in contact with many young women who are unable to keep their children. We don't care what race the child is. We have a substantial savings account and would be willing to pay any price."

I have received many such letters from couples across the country. These are couples who have been turned down by various adoption agencies (or are No. 300 on a waiting list). Their only recourse is to "buy" a baby on the black adoption market.

A black market of any kind surfaces and thrives when the commodity is scarce. Today, fewer babies exist for adoption for several reasons: liberalized abortion laws; diminishing social stigma at being an unwed mother; adoption is a socially acceptable way of creating a family; concern for the population explosion; many contemporary women are no longer accepting the "marry, have a baby, live happily ever after" syndrome that previous generations have been programmed to desire; minorities have moved ahead economically and so there are now more adoptive families; subsidized adoptions; transracial adoptions, and adoptions by a single parent.

Miss Lillian L. Flowers, executive director of Salt Lake City's Children's Services Society, states that babies are being sold on the black market for $10,000 to $25,000. She adds that no receipts or precise documentation is available on such transactions (as with all underground sales).

How do we know such a market exists? Like the drug market, we see the results of the transactions more than the actual passing of commodities. A San Francisco social worker confided that the father of a pregnant 13-year-old consulted her about "selling" the unwanted baby. She advised him of the illegalities of the situation. The next time she saw the girl, the baby was gone and the father was driving a shiny new car.

There is more evidence of the existence of this black market. Unwed mothers in hospitals are approached about selling their babies. Young girls are often encouraged to release their children outside of agencies. Pregnant women check into hospitals under the name of the "purchasing" parents. Childless couples suddenly come into possession of a nonexistent sister's child.

Along with the black market exists the gray market. Doctors, lawyers, social workers and/or other professional persons set up independent adoptions for a "finder's fee."

These transactions, black and gray, very often cross state boundaries. Couples from heavily populated centers like New York and California come to Midwest states seeking less competition for children, and also hoping to get a "less polluted child" (assuming the drug influence is decreased in these areas).

The dangers involved in any black market transaction are compounded in the black baby market. There are no protections for anyone concerned, particularly the child. The child has no adults to screen his new parents and/or intervene, if necessary, on his behalf. Conversely, if the couple has problems with the child, they cannot return him to the black marketeer.

The black marketeers do not provide the all-important counseling and supervision of the adoptive family which the agencies do.

The black market parents have no information about the physical or mental background of the child, and no assurance that the natural mother will not reappear and wish to take back her child. There is no legal reason to restrain her from this action.

Granted, a scarcity of children exists, but there are many in need of homes.

According to the February issue of COAC (The Council on Adoptable Children in Texas) Reports, ARENA (Adoption Resource Exchange of North America) listed 514 children: 299 of the children are black; 215 are white or other; 352 are male; 375 are of school age; 154 have physical handicaps, and 256 are limited intellectually.

Money spent to line the pockets of "human being" black marketeers could be better spent on ARENA's 514 special children.

Peking Opera Needs To Learn 'Show Business'

By MARTIN FRICK

SAN FRANCISCO — The Peking Opera began a four-month tour of North America last night in the Masonic Auditorium before a two-thirds capacity audience sprinkled with a busload of Hollywood celebrities flown here for the occasion.

It must be noted first, that this company has been based in Hong Kong since 1965, when the government of the People's Republic of China disbanded it; and secondly, that they arrived from Hong Kong just 24 hours before performing and had time only for a photographer's rehearsal.

Finally, this is not opera as we know it in the West. Evolving through 2,000 years of classical Chinese theater, it has taken its final shape in the last 200 years with clear influences from the acrobatic and wrestling plays of the Han Dynasty; mask and puppet plays of the 6th and 7th centuries, and the Tang Dynasty dialogue plays.

That the performers train for a minimum of seven years was evident in the stunning virtuosity of the acrobats, particularly in the free-for-all curtain calls which brought the audience to its feet. It was apparent also in the sharp, precise movements of heads and hands, and in the formal poses of the bodies.

But, if this company is to have a successful tour, it must learn from American show business what the European dance troupes learned a few decades ago: "Get on with it!" At least one hour of the two-and-one-half-hour show, largely improvised, could be eliminated without any detraction to the plots or moods of the four excerpts of classic Chinese operas presented last night.

The first, "Combat at Red Peach Hill," established the visual pattern of marching soldiers with colorful banners and principal characters in dazzling, authentic costumes, while the sounds of clanging cymbals were to be heard incessantly.

"The Crossroads," which followed, is the famous black comedy duel between an innkeeper and a guest suspected of a plot to murder a general also at the inn. The comic, hairbreadth misses are indeed a feat of timing and ballet, and actor Burgess Meredith, seated behind me, at first chuckled like the Penguin at many of the subtle nuances. But, alas, "brevity is the soul of wit." It went on far too long.

After intermission, "The Romance of the Jade Bracelet" brought the only distinguishable singing by a young maiden, feeding fowl, who captures the fancy of a young scholar. The pitches are high to Western ears, but appropriately fragile for a scene like this which suffered from lack of direction.

An excerpt from the traditional "Money" opera brought the full company onstage in the most satisfying spectacle topped off by the pyrotechnic display of leaping, tumbling bodies splashed in yellows, greens, blues and reds, each color, whether in face or costume, with its own special significance.

Performances run through Sunday in, what I trust, will be greatly edited versions.

Film Series Opener To Be Tonight

Comedies, horror films, thrillers and murder mysteries will be among the summer offerings of the Sausalito Youth Center's "Friday Night at the Movies" series.

The weekly program will begin tonight with the screening of four comedy shorts — W. C. Fields's "The Pharmacist," "The Blacksmith" with Buster Keaton and "Them Thar Hills" and "Tit for Tat," featuring Laurel and Hardy.

On Friday the 13th, the center will present "Mark of the Vampire," starring Bela Lugosi and Lionel Barrymore.

All films begin at 8 p.m. in the center, located in Central School, Caledonia and Bee streets.

On Saturday, July 21, the center will hold a special film festival featuring Humphrey Bogart and Leslie Howard in "Stand In," a 1937 film and "Balloonatics," with Buster Keaton.

Other films in the series are: July 27, "David Copperfield," with Freddie Bartholomew and Lionel Barrymore; Aug. 3, "Jitterbugs," with Laurel and Hardy and "The Garage" with Buster Keaton; Aug. 10, "Rodan," a Japanese science fiction; Aug. 17, "Foreign Correspondent," a Hitchcock film with Joel McCrea and Laraine Day; Aug. 24, "Charlie Chan in Egypt" and "The Golf Specialist," W. C. Fields, and Aug. 31, "The Golem," a 1920 German film and "Derby Days," with the Our Gang youngsters.

Pianist Eschenbach To Play In Marin Sunday

Pianist Christopher Eschenbach will play an all Shubert concert at 2:30 p.m., Sunday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building as the second concert in this year's Marin Music Chest series.

His concert will feature, "Four Imrpromptus," opus 90; "Fantasy in C: Major", opus 15 and "Sonata in A Major," opus posthmus.

Eschenbach was born in Breslau, Germany, in 1940 and started his career in Europe. He was brought to this country in 1969 by the late George Szell of the Cleveland Orchestra. He has played with major orchestras in this country, Canada, Japan and South America.

His only other Bay Area appearance was with the San Francisco Symphony in 1972.

The third and last of the Music Chest concerts will be at 2:30 p.m. Sept. 9 with the San Francisco Ballet. Marin Music Chest Scholarship winners will be announced at that time.

Girl Doesn't Need Antirabies Shots

The owner of a large black dog that bit 11-year-old Rebecca Kaiser of Greenbrae Wednesday has produced proof that the dog has been immunized against rabies.

Marjorie Kaiser of 805 South Eliseo Drive, Rebecca's mother, said the dog's owner was quickly traced by the Larkspur police department yesterday morning, and her daughter won't have to undergo antirabies treatment.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. FAMILY

"Aristocats" — Feature length animated cartoon set in Paris in 1910. A high society cat and her kittens are kidnapped by the villainous butler so that he can inherit their fabulous estate.

"Charlotte's Web" — This charming film in animation affirms the value of friendship, kindness and sacrifice. The voices of Debbie Reynolds, Paul Lynde and Agnes Moorehead are memorable.

"Lost Horizon" — Spectacular music version of classic tale about Shangri-La, that mystical hidden valley of brotherly love and tranquil longevity. Fine cast.

"Song of the South" — Disney's rendition of Uncle Remus tales of slave days Down South with charming cartoons of Brer Rabbit's escapades.

"Sound of Music" — Film version of Broadway musical about the von Trapp Family Singers. Glorious music, thrilling settings and Julie Andrews.

"Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" — Five children win a conducted tour of a mysterious chocolate factory that is enchanted. A gently humorous, imaginative musical fantasy.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Day of the Jackal" — Highly charged but lengthy thriller. It is disturbing in that it invited the audience to suspend moral judgement on political assassination. An attempt on the life of de Gaulle by extreme right-wing French OAS because he de-colonized Algeria. Some suggestive scenes.

"Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" — The daughter of a vitriolic widowed woman learns through a science project that the seed of human promise can survive the mutations of inheritance and environment. Considerable crude language.

"Harold and Maude" — A heavy-handed film about an 80-year-old woman teaching a mixed up young man how to enjoy life including marriage.

"Live and Let Die" — Eighth in a series of James Bond tales. This time he must save the world from drug addiciton — the master mind is a Harlem gangster. Usual gimics, chases and tensions.

"The Other" — A grim horror story about a little boy who is possessed by the evil spirit of his dead twin brother and the violent deeds he performs on his family. Gruesome implications.

"Paper Moon" — An expertly crafted sophisticated comedy drama recreating the Thirties. A travelling salesman-con artist agrees to deliver a 9-year-old orphan to an Aunt in Missouri. The child is tough, smokes and swears and out swindles her mentor. Disturbing thought is that some children may copy her behavior.

"Poseidon Adventure" — A monstrous tidal wave overturns a passenger ship. Tension is almost unbearable as survivors attempt to escape the flooding, burning vessel.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cisco Pike" — The vulgar, obscene dialogue, nudity and drug use tell this tale "like it is". A sad drug and blackmail drama, raw, but not without merit.

"Friends of Eddie Coyle" — Cynical crime movie about a small time hood who gets squeezed between the law and the underworld. Violence, sex and excessive cursing.

"Love and Pain and the Whole Damn Thing" — Unlikely romance between an aging, ailing English spinster and a mixed-up frustrated boy 30 years her junior. Part drama, comedy and soap-opera set in Spain.

"Save the Tiger" — Financial crisis of wealthy manufacturer causes him to commit a serious felony to save his business. Good acting and direction also sex, nudity and cursing.

"Super Fly TNT" — Super Fly goes to Africa to supply guns to revolutionaries in a small country. Title stands for "Tain't Nothing to It" which says it all. (Product Digest)

ADULTS ONLY

"Candy" — A 17 year-old girl's series of sexual adventures may be a satire on pronography but does not make it less offensive.

"Harrod Experiment" — A school for sex ends up candy-coating promiscuity and the concept of group marriage. Nudity.

"Scarecrow" — Two likeable drifters meet on the road. The poignant story of their friendship is punctuated by comic incidents. Sex and nudity, cursing and violence are played for realism rather than expliciatation.

Betty Grable's Career Praised

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — Betty Grable was eulogized yesterday as an inspiration to the men of World War II.

"She was a shining light in the darkness" of the world's greatest war, the Rev. Tally H. Jarrett Jr., said. "She kept up our spirits, and made us proud to be Americans."

Reflections Of A Forest Ranger

DAILY Independent-Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

By FRANK FARRARA

With the instincts of a former forest ranger, Grant A. Morse viewed the growing wind outside his Novato home yesterday as a potential fanner of brush and grass fires.

Morse, who retired June 30 after 40 years with the service, then settled in his chair and recalled his start at a time when the Forest Service's job was "custodial with little or no development."

It was a time before smog, lumber depletion and increasing recreational uses, when the environment wasn't as threatened as it is now.

It was an era when "man's impact on the globe was not as dominant as it is today," Morse said.

"I would like to encourage people to recognize we depend upon the natural environment for our very existence," he said. "How we treat it has an influence on life."

Morse, a genial, gentle man spoke with the touch of an educator rather than an outdoorsman, apparently the result of his past 15 years as chief of the division of information and education for the Forest Service in California.

The 60-year-old Morse followed the career of his father, the late Chester (Chet) Morse, a 36-year Forest Service employee, who was supervisor of Targhee National Forest in Idaho and Wyoming when his son, Grant, was born.

"When Dad was there the forest had about 25 employees, when I was there in 1950 there were about 100 employees and today probably 300," Morse said, indicating the growth during his lifetime.

Morse, a second generation Forest Service employee, said "I knew the kind of life it entailed and I wouldn't have changed it."

During his career, he faced the dangers of forest fires and wild animals, lived in isolated areas and was moved from post to post in the mountain states and as far apart as Atlanta, Ga., and San Francisco.

He said, "I've lived with and slept among wild animals, bear, moose, elk and in the Black Hills, buffalo. They respected me and I respected them. It's always hazardous if you don't plan in advance."

Noting the varied uses of Forest Service land, timber, grazing, mineral, watershed, recreational, esthetic, wilderness, Morse said he would encourage citizens to look on public lands as their own property, to guard it as their own against fire, litter and vandalism."

Being a forest ranger wasn't universally popular, Morse said. "Grazing men who believed they were being abused thought the rangers were a bad bunch, timber men were hard-nosed and the wildlife enthusiasts believed the forest service was selling out to somebody. So you're always in the middle."

In the new environmental awareness, "literally thousands" want to become forest rangers; to have an opportunity to do something about environmental quality, Morse said. The work is now more specialized and they should prepare for it, he said.

Morse with a degree in forestry from the University of Michigan, started his career as a Civilian Conservation Corps foreman in the Rocky Mountains. "The CCC built more campgrounds than ever had been developed," he said.

As the years passed recreation use has increased six to 10 per cent a year "and that's compounded," he said.

In the past "the general public had done as well as it knew" in care of the environment, "but in the past there was sufficient area and a small enough number of people," he said.

In recent years the environmental education program "has really taken hold and people are responding noticeably."

When the Forest Service started in 1905 it was in the "forefront of the conservation movement," and in "Teddy Roosevelt's day there was a great deal of interest," Morse said.

Now, the service finds itself "in the middle" between those who want to preserve everything and those who want to use everything, he said.

Morse said he believes it would be possible to produce the timber needed for housing if the forest service were given the money and the manpower "to do the job properly."

"I think we have renewable resources in the forest that can sustain human and other forms of life," he said. "We are going to rely more and more on renewable resources."

Morses posts during the 40 years read almost like an atlas; district ranger in three different national forests in Colorado; staff assistant at the Holy Cross National Forest and Denver regional office; safety and training officer in Atlanta, Ga.; assistant supervisor of the Challis National Forest in Idaho, forest supervisor at the Targhee National Forest and supervisor at the Black Hills National Forest in South Dakota, and finally chief of division of information and education, San Francisco.

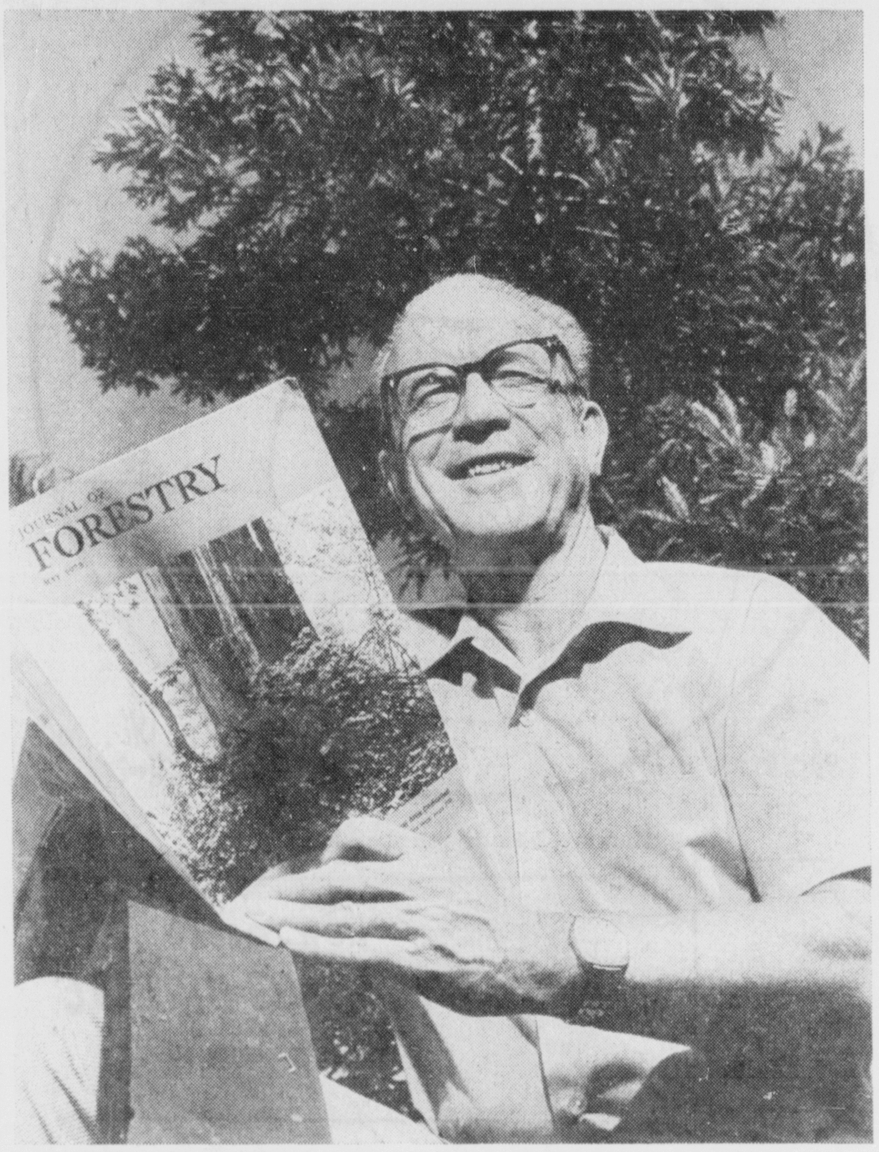
Glancing at pictures on the wall of homes they had lived in, Morse and his wife, Faris, recalled the days they lived in Challis, Idaho.

"We were snowed in three weeks, no bread, no mail delivery," Morse said. "It was 140 miles from the nearest railroad and 110 miles from Pocatello."

The Morses, who have lived in Novato since 1958, intend to remain at their home at 1525 Buchanan Street. "We can see the hills from here," Morse said.

A licensed professional forester, Morse said he intends to work as a forestry consultant and as a vice president for the Bon Voyage Travel Agency of San Francisco.

Morse has four sons, none of whom has chosen to follow the career of their father and grandfather, and a daughter, recently married, all living away from home.



RETIRED FORESTER — Grant A. Morse of Novato isn't studying a how-to manual in forestry. His recently ended 40-year career in the Forest Service, on top of a childhood spent with his forester father, has made him an authority on the subject. He plans a private career as a forestry consultant. (Independent-Journal photo)

A Five-Day Hunt Nets Drug Cache

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — A 1,000-pound cache of hashish and marijuana has been found after a five-day search which began with the arrest of 20 persons — including a former producer of blue movies from San Rafael — and the seizure of two vessels.

The head superintendent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on Vancouver Island, J. M. Nelson, said last night that 700-800 pounds of hashish and about 200 pounds of marijuana was found buried in mud beneath a log on the south side of Quatsino Sound.

The drugs, valued at about $1 million, were first discovered Wednesday by an unidentified serviceman from the Canadian Forces base at Holberg, Nelson said.

Quatsino Sound, near the northwestern tip of the island, is where the converted U.S. minesweeper Marysville and the Canadian fishboat Gondola were stopped last Saturday. All seven persons on board the Gondola and 13 on the Marysville were arrested and charged with conspiracy to import narcotics into Canada.

The San Rafael man arrested, 38-year-old Alexander Edward DeRenzy, is the owner of the Marysville. He is also a producer of X-rated movies.

RCMP spokesmen said in announcing the arrests they had information of a 1,000-pound hashish shipment but had been unable to locate it. RCMP and Canadian Forces personnel instituted a full-scale search, and it was one of the servicemen participating in the search who found the contraband, Nelson said.

Hike In Taxable Sales Reported

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The auto industry was a major factor in an 11 per cent increase in taxable retail sales in California between the first quarters of 1972 and 1973, the state Finance Department says.

The department report yesterday said new car dealers recorded a 22.3 per cent rise in dollar value of sales, slightly higher than the 20.4 per cent gain estimated for the entire United States.

The report also noted that new car registrations were up by 25.7 per cent in the first quarter.

Old Adobe Board Head Reelected

Terence Garvey was elected vice chairman and Margaret Kullberg was named board clerk. The oath of office was given to Donald Bennett, who was elected in April, and he was named as the board's representative to the Sonoma County Committee on School District Reorganization.

In other business, board members considered the hiring of Barbara Bordessa as a full-time account clerk, but hesitated because her parents are both district employees.

Norman Ross, La Tercera School principal, said board members agreed to study a policy on hiring people from the same family before reconsidering her appointment.

The board adjourned to July 26 at 7:45 p.m. to study the 1973-74 budget and scheduled the public hearing and adoption of it for Aug. 7.

Nixon Will See Kelley Take Oath

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon will stop in Kansas City Monday en route back to Washington to preside over the swearing-in of Clarence M. Kelley as the new FBI director.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said yesterday the President would make remarks at the ceremony, to be held shortly after noon in front of the Kansas City federal building.

Kelley, an FBI veteran who served for more than a decade as Kansas City's police chief, was nominated in May as FBI director and confirmed by the Senate last week.

Nixon is winding up a two-week working vacation here.

Kelley is a native of Kansas City, and a White House official said the President thought it appropriate that the swearingin ceremony be held in his home town.

Judge William Becker, chief judge of the U. S. District Court of Western Missouri, will administer the oath of office.

Westmore Buried

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Funeral was held today for Walter J. (Wally) Westmore, one of six brothers who dominated the movie making cosmetics industry for decades. Westmore, 67, died Tuesday.

Sausalito Train Idea Defeated

A plan to run a steam railroad from Sausalito's northern city limits to the downtown area went down to defeat last night at the hands of the city planning commission.

By a 3-1 vote, with Grank Bowen dissenting, the commission turned down the Sausalito-Richardson Bay Railroad Company's request for a permit to operate the rail service. Commissioner Thomas H. Gildersleeve did not attend the meeting.

The company had proposed to run the narrow gauge train to the downtown every half hour, according to chairman Robert L. Nissen.

He said the commission did not think that service would be frequent enough to move people efficiently from the city's proposed northern parking facility to the center of town.

"We want to see a people mover that will make runs more quickly, every five minutes if necessary," he said.

As proposed, the train would be "principally a visitor attraction rather than a useful shuttle service," according to the chairman.

Nissen said the commission objected to the rail company's plans to make stops in the Marinship area. "We feel this could encourage expansion of visitor-oriented uses along the tracks."

Commissioners also opposed a plan by the railroad company to build a museum and artifact sales room at its northern terminal, believing such an operation would open the Marinship to tourist use.

Dr. George E. Mohun of Novato, a director of the company, expressed dismay at the decision, saying that several commissioners "really didn't want a train at all."

Mohun said the commission could have placed any kind of conditions it wanted on the permit. It could have required more frequent runs and forbidden stops in Marinship and the museum. Mohun said the company will probably appeal the planning commission's decision to the city council.

Workman Off Critical List

Dan G. Koepple, 23-year-old Petaluma man injured Monday when he was pinned under a forklift in a construction site accident, today was reported off the critical list at Marin General Hospital.

Koepple, who suffered a crushed chest and a head injury, was termed in serious condition.

Koeppel was injured in an accident at a construction site, on Mahogany Drive, where a forklift slid over an embankment, overturning and trapping Koepple.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

It's your hit parade! Yes, people born today have been outstanding singers. Can you name the songs they made popular?

1. MERV GRIFFIN was a piano prodigy in his hometown of San Mateo, Calif. But this 48-year old proved he could sing as well in a radio amateur contest. After he was signed to sing with Freddie Martin's band, do you recall what song he made a hit: (A) "I've Got a Lovely Bunch of Coconuts" or (B) "Don't You Know"?

2. DELLA REESE is a popular singer from Detroit, Mich. She began singing with church choirs in 1938 and joined Mahalia Jackson's troupe in 1945. For a time she had her own gospel group and did club work. Now 41, she has been a solo artist since 1957, featured on the Ed Sullivan and Jackie Gleason shows. Is one of her popular recordings (A) "I've Got a Lovely Bunch of Coconuts" or (B) "Don't You Know"?

3. DOROTHY KIRSTEN, 54 today, made her name singing grand opera. She was born in Montclair, N.J. and took voice training in the United States, France and Italy. In 1940 Dorothy made her debut with the Chicago Opera Co. of New York. Did she sing in "Madame Butterfly" the song (A) "One Fine Day" or (B) "Apple Blossom Time"?

4. LAVERNE ANDREWS belonged to one of the top singing groups of the 1930s — "The Andrews Sisters." She and sisters Maxine and Patti were born in Minneapolis, Minn. Was one of their hit songs (A) "One Fine Day" or (B) Apple Blossom Time"?

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Making Slam Contract Depends Upon Attacking The Distribution

Today's hand, furnished by Jean Besse, the great Swiss expert, is an exercise in declarer's play. Pay no attention to the East-West cards and forget about North's optimistic bidding. Decide on the best line of play for 12 tricks at hearts.

Neither side vulnerable

♡ A 10 4
◇ 8 2

SOUTH

♣ Q 6 3

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	6 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead — ◇ Q

NORMAL BREAKS

It's reasonable to assume that the suits will break fairly normally, but not ideally. The spades and hearts should break 4-2 and the diamonds should break either 4-3 or 5-2. You need only these normal breaks to be absolutely safe at six hearts.

The best line of play is to win the first diamond and give up a spade trick at once.

Regardless of the return, you can take the other top diamond, ruff a diamond with dummy's ten of trumps and draw four rounds of trumps. Then you can get to dummy with a spade or a club to run the rest of the spades.

ENOUGH TRICKS

This gives you four spade tricks, four trumps, two diamonds, one club and one ruffing trick. Twelve tricks are all you need.

The important play is to give that spade trick up gracefully at the very beginning. The slam is then a cinch except against very abnormal breaks.

ANOTHER WAY

You can probably find another way to make the hand as the East-West cards actually lie, but you can't be sure of how the missing cards lie if you see only the South hand and the dummy. Your task is to find the best play against any normal distribution.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A K Q 8 7
♥ - A 10 4
♦ - 8 2
♣ - A 8 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Do not open one no-trump when you have a powerful five-card major suit, especially when you have a worthless doubleton in some other suit.

Hope Hosting His Relatives

ANAHEIM (UPI) — "What's he doing here?" asked a youngster, recognizing a famous face in the crowd at Disneyland yesterday.

"He's giving his family a good time," replied one of the grandchildren tagging along in the crowd with Bob Hope. And a crowd it was. Hope said that ordinarily he goes to Ohio to see his relatives in Cleveland and Columbus for the Fourth of July holidays each year. This year, he told them to come visit him instead, and chartered a plane for them—all 54 of them, down to the grandchildren.

The veteran entertainer hosts the relatives until they leave next Tuesday. Today it was to be Knott's Berry Farm, Palm springs Saturday, Sunday Sea World and then the San Diego Zoo.

AND HERE ARE MORE INTERESTING FACTS:

A friend of ours took a little survey, and, surprisingly, nobody got the right answer to this question: the question was: "Who makes a higher salary — a U.S. Senator or a member of the U.S. House of Representatives?" Everybody said the Senator. But that's not true. Senators and members of the House of Representatives all make exactly the same yearly salary, which is $42,500. Others facts are A. It's a good time to buy property and B. We have plenty of funds available to finance your purchase, so follow the actions with HENRY HICKS AND ASSOCIATES.

State To Fund Special Election

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The cost of the special Nov. 6 election on Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax initiative measure will be paid by the state, the legislature's lawyer said yesterday.

The question of whether the legislature could block the election by not appropriating the money before Nov. 6 was not dealt with in the opinion.

Legislative Counsel George Murphy issued the opinion at the request of Assemblyman Eugene A. Chappie, R-Cool, who said, "It will be necessary either to amend existing legislation or introduce a special measure to finance this special election."

When the legislature reconvenes Aug. 6, Chappie says he will sponsor such legislation "to provide that the state pay for any election costs incurred by the counties."

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, has said Democrats may attempt to block the election if it requires an appropriations bill before Nov. 6.

Reagan has said the election would be held in any event. The issue of who would have to pay would be settled later, he has said.

The Reagan measure puts a 15-year lid on state spending and grants a one-time income tax rebate of 20 per cent to California taxpayers. Critics have said the measure places a spending straightjacket on government that would make it impossible to run vital programs.

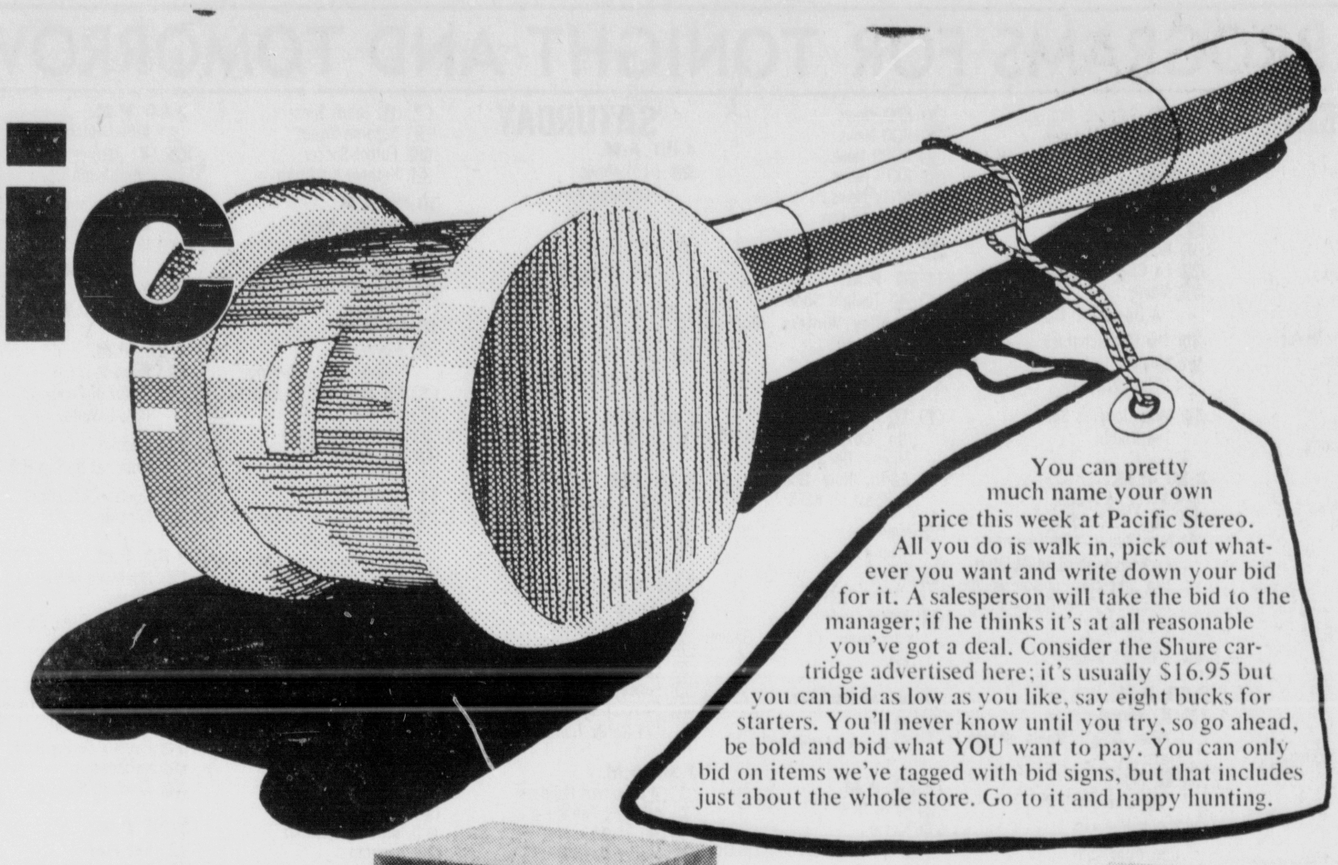
Public Bid Sale



You can pretty much name your own price this week at Pacific Stereo. All you do is walk in, pick out whatever you want and write down your bid for it. A salesperson will take the bid to the manager; if he thinks it's at all reasonable you've got a deal. Consider the Shure cartridge advertised here; it's usually $16.95 but you can bid as low as you like, say eight bucks for starters. You'll never know until you try, so go ahead, be bold and bid what YOU want to pay. You can only bid on items we've tagged with bid signs, but that includes just about the whole store. Go to it and happy hunting.

A Good Value Even At The Regular Prices

The SX-424 is the most economical way there is to get Pioneer performance and reliability. A modest $199.95 gets you 24 watts (RMS) of power, an AM/FM tuner section that delivers a clean rendition of just about anything on the air, and a loudness contour that compensates for the loss of bass frequencies when you're listening softly. The walnut case is included.

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable automatic changer with a cueing lever to place the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge gently on your records. We usually sell the 40B for $65.85 with this cartridge and a base.

Quadraflex Model 33's are two-way, eight-inch systems that sound clean and clear no matter what kind of music you like to hear. Their price is a surprisingly low $109.90 a pair.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty
To purchase these separately, you would pay:

Two Now, Four Later With This Harman-Kardon System

Harman-Kardon's 75+ receiver is pretty hard to fault for either stereo or four-channel sound. Like Harman-Kardon's other top receivers, it incorporates twin power supplies, and these deliver 90 watts (RMS) in the stereo mode. Of course there's a very good tuner section and all the controls a top receiver should have. And the 75+ will be ready for four-channel whenever you are; it produces a healthy 18 watts (RMS) per channel with all four driven, and there's an SQ decoder and a 360 degree balance control. The price is $499.95; a walnut case is optional.

Every desirable record and needle saving device and the bonus of a synchronous motor which stays on speed under all conceivable conditions make the Garrard SL65B a fine value. We include a base and an Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge in the $95.85 price.

Rectilinear 11A's achieve a very flat frequency response from their 10" two-way configuration, and the simple crossover design helps keep coloration nil. These fine-sounding systems sell for $159 a pair.

A Powerful Sherwood Receiver

With a high-power amplifier section and a high-performance tuner, the Sherwood S-8900A is probably the best FM stereo receiver you'll find at $430. The amplifier delivers an honest 120 watts (RMS) from 20 to 20,000 Hz; the tuner's superb specifications (such as a 70dB S/N ratio) ensure clean reception of any station on the air. The S-8900A also has a built-in matrix device to create four-channel from stereo sources, and all the convenience features you could want. The walnut case is extra.

Come On Fellas: Give The Girl A Chance

The power of a woman. Although at only 10 years of age, you can hardly call Jenny Fulle a woman. Nevertheless, she has made things tough for the Little League people of Mill Valley.

Jenny is 100 pounds of fight for the Women's Libbers. Because she can hit a ball just as far as boys can and field with the best of them, she wants to play on the same team. The team, however, is in the Mill Valley Little League and national charter of that organization says "no girls."

JENNY FULLE

AFTER STRIKING OUT in a letter to President Nixon, Jenny took the next best approach, appealing to local government. There she got some action. . .and her first victory.

The Mill Valley City Council last month voted to tell the National Little League organization to stay out of town next year unless it changes its boys-only rule. Without the rule change, Little League will not be allowed to use the city's parks and recreation facilities.

One of the opponents of the council decision was Mayor Jean S. Barnard who said there is a difference between the sexes and "viva la difference." And that is just the point. When Jenny is a few years older there indeed will be a difference. And when this difference is much more apparent, I would wager that she will forget all about playing baseball on men's teams.

BUT AT 10, there is very little difference between boys and girls. Many times a 10-year-old girl is stronger than a 10-year-old boy and often she is a better athlete. I can see no reason, at Little League age, to bar girls from a sport. Girls have been playing in the Novato Parks and Recreation Department kids baseball program for two years and none of the boys have gone out and hanged themselves because of it.

I will agree with the male chauvinists of the world that as an adult women are the weaker sex when it comes to sports. As an adult, Jenny will not be able to hit a ball as far as men. There is no way for a woman to match a man in events of physical prowess such as swimming, running or jumping. The muscle structure of a woman prohibits her from being as strong. But a woman should still be allowed to compete in sports against other women. Debbie Meyer a few years ago and now Australia's Shane Gould are great swimmers in women's competition but could not be expected to win against the best of the men.

THAT IS WHY I think it is ridiculous, at the high school level, to allow girls to play on boys' football teams where they would be outmatched physically. For them to compete on previously all-male golf and tennis teams, where skill rather than brawn is the key factor, is perfectly all right.

But at Little League age, a time when there is little difference in the sexes, I have yet to be convinced girls such as Jenny Fulle should be banned from playing on the grounds they are females.

When they are young women, I strongly agree with Mrs. Barnard: "Viva la difference." But when they are 10-year-old kids trying to win a spot on the ball team, I say give the girls a chance.

Football Clinic Set In Novato

Marin County and Petaluma boys 10 to 14 years old can sign up for the Novato-San Marin Pop Warner Football Clinic set July 21, 9-11:30 a.m., on the Novato High School football field.

Globe said the non-contact format will include: "Basic football fundamentals and instruction conducted by Marin County Athletic League football coaches."

Rain Delays Tennis Play In Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Wimbledon's fabled luck with the uncertain British weather ran out today when a steady rain forced a delay in the start of the first all-American women's finals since 1957 between Billie Jean King and Chris Evert.

What worried officials as much as the rain was a cloud formation so dense it reduced the light over the tennis grounds to something approaching dusk. More than an hour after the scheduled 9 a.m. (EDT) start there was no sign of a break.

Mrs. King, Hilton Head, S.C., is gunning for her fifth singles title to break the postwar record of four held by Louis Brough. Miss Evert, runnerup in the French and Italian tournaments, is still after her first major title. At 18 the Fort Lauderdale girl is the youngest finalist since Maureen Connolly in 1952.

Mrs. King and Miss Evert are also after the first prize of $7,500. The runner-up gets $5,000.

As rain pelted down on the umbrellas in the open stands, referee Capt. Mike Gibson said the singles final would have to be postponed until Saturday unless play can start by 1 p.m. (EDT).

If today's program is washed out, he said, it would probably mean playing the doubles finals on Sunday since Mrs. King is also in the women's doubles and the mixed doubles and could not be expected to play them all on one day.

Mrs. King, who has been winning titles in this grass court classic since 1961, says breaking Louis Brough's mark of four titles "would really be a thrill. I'll be honest with you," she said. "I want to win for the fifth time."

Bespectacled Billie Jean will start a slight betting favorite against the 18-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the first all-American final since 1957.

But the odds would have been longer if fourth-seeded Miss Evert had not given topseeded Margaret Court of Australia one of the beatings of her career, 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 to reach the finals.

On the other hand 29-year-old Billie Jean played below her best in the semifinals, although well enough to beat an erratic Evonne Goolagong of Australia 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

After a cliffhanger that went on until the light was beginning to fade Thursday, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia made Saturday's men's singles the first Communist country finals in history. The second-seeded Czech beat Britain's fourth-seeded Roger Taylor 8-9, 9-7, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5 with the last set interrupted 37 minutes by rain.

He meets Alex Metreveli, who became the first Russian ever to achieve the finals, by beating unseeded Alex Mayer of Mount Freedom, NJ, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Before he ran into the fourth-seeded Russian, Mayer had eliminated top seed Ilie Nastase of Romania and eighth-seed Jurgen Fassbender of Germany. But the 21-year-old intercollegiate champ said he was satisfied with his trip here. "I came to get experience and I got it," he said.

Smallest Boat Leads Transpac

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Teacher's Pet III, a homemade 32-foot cutter and the smallest craft in the fleet, reported herself as the apparent leader in the second day of the 27th running of the 2,225-nautical mile Transpacific yacht race from Los Angeles Harbor to Honolulu Thursday.

Race officials, however, were skeptical whether the cutter—piloted by C.A. Derivas III and making its first ocean run and in the lowest class of the four groups making the race—was actually outdistancing the class A yachts.

Teacher's Pet was the fleet leader of 60 vessels under the "corrected time" handicap, which allows time allowances for the smaller crafts.

Other "corrected time" leaders:

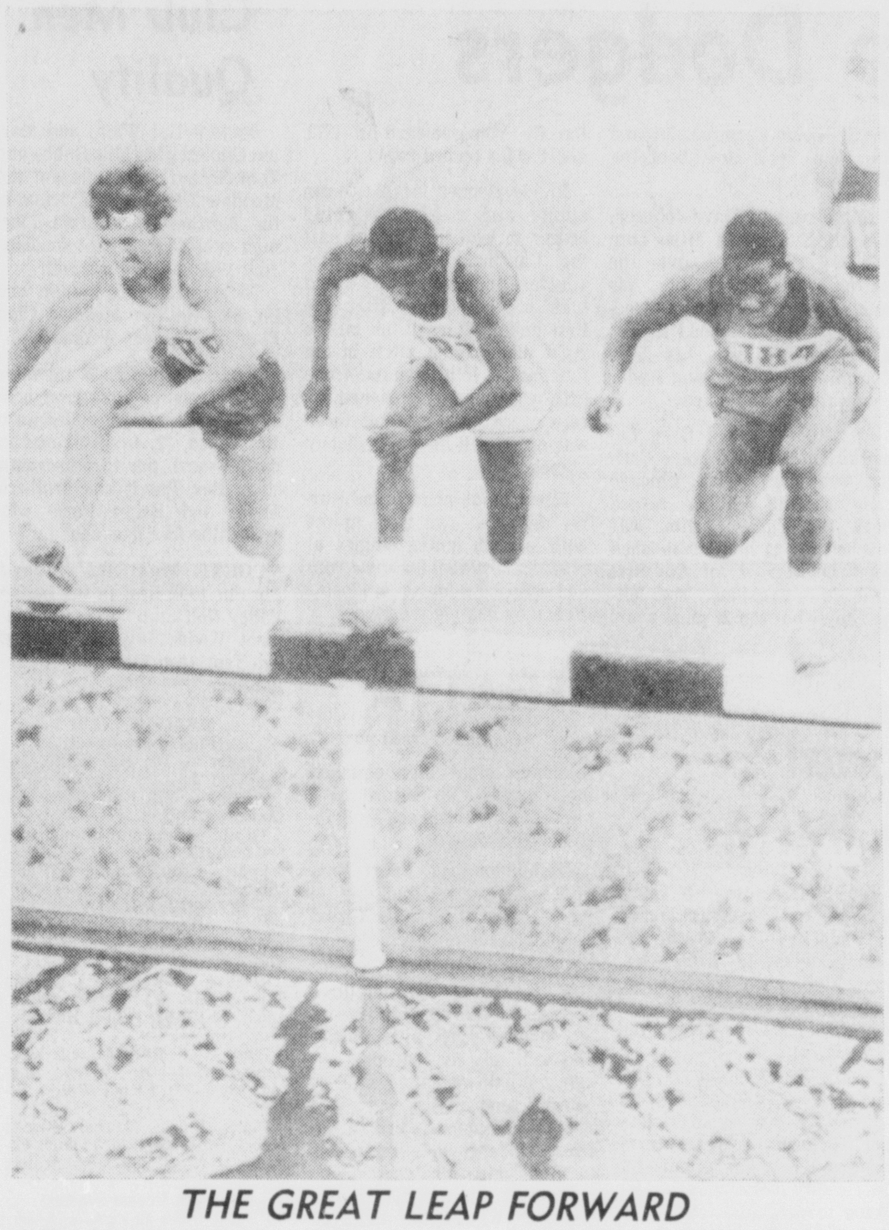
Class A: 1. Warrior; 2. Robon; 3. Ragtime; 4. Windward Passage; 5. New World.

Class B: 1. Sanderling IV; 2. Improbable; 3. Nalu II; 4. Naferti; 5. Panache.

Class C: 1. Pnacea; 2. Kolohe; 3. Mistress H; 4. Mamia; 5. Sirocco.

Class D: 1. Teacher's Pet III; 2. Moon Day; 3. Witchcraft; 4. Tinisye Light; 5. Ariana.

Lazzarini Is Named Drake Coach



THE GREAT LEAP FORWARD

Benjamin Jipcho of Kenya (right) passed two track rivals Tuesday on his way to a 3,000 meter steeplechase victory in Stockholm. Grant Taggart of Australia (left) and Evans Mogaka were negotiating a hurdle when passed by Jipcho. Jipcho was timed at 8:19.2 but failed to break his own record of 8:14 set in Helinski June 27.

Franceschini Stays As Grid Lineman Aide

If Dean Lazzarini can duplicate as a coach the triumphs which made him a legend as a player, Drake High School is in excellent shape for the upcoming football season.

Athletic director Carl (Red) Brown announced yesterday that the 25-year-old "Lazz," two years an assistant for the Pirates, is replacing Bob Franceschini as head coach.

Franceschini will remain as line coach — and who would have dreamed in 1965, when Lazzarini was a prep star running over and around opponents, that one day he would be the veteran Franceschini's boss?

"It's the culmination and the beginning of a dream," said Lazzarini this morning, "to ever think that I would be head coach, and at Drake."

For weeks the appointment was in doubt, pending Lazzarini's appointment to a permanent teaching position at the school, Brown said. Lazz was a student teacher in 1971 and a full-time teacher on a one-year contract in 1972, but his permanent status at Drake was not certain until late May.

Lazzarini earned a B.A. degree in history from the University of the Pacific in Stockton in 1970, and will teach history.

A 1966 graduate of Drake, Lazz was all-Marin County Athletic League as a running back in 1964 and 1965 and acclaimed the best back of his era in Marin. He also was a track star, setting the MCAL record with a 9.7 clocking in the 100-yard dash in 1966 and once running 9.6 for the fastest time ever by a Marinite. Both marks still stand.

After briefly attending UCLA, Lazzarini enrolled at College of Marin and played halfback on the 1967 Golden Valley Conference champions. He then went on to UOP, where he was a starting halfback for two years. His collegiate career was hampered by injuries.

Franceschini has been head coach since 1958, and reached the high point of his Drake career in the middle sixties, when his teams won or shared the title four times in five years culminating in 1967. Lazzarini was on his co-champion in 1963, outright champion in 1964 and second-place team (by a half-game margin) in 1965.

FINLEY SAYS:

A's Not Moving To New Orleans

Combined AP & UPI

In New Orleans it is being said the Oakland A's baseball franchise might be shifted there by 1975 but as the A's get ready to open a series in Baltimore tonight owner Charles O. Finley says the story is completely untrue.

The announcement of the possible A's shift came from Ben Levy, executive director of the New Orleans Superdome.

"I don't mind hinting that the existing world champions will be in the Superdome by 1975," Levy said.

He said Superdome officials have been working with the presidents of the National and American Leagues to bring a major league baseball team to New Orleans.

Levy said that with the transfer of the San Diego Padres to Washington, New Orleans was next in line for a franchise.

"Before the Padres moved there were five major league baseball teams in California, and they've been eating each other alive," said Levy.

He said competition for fans has been extremely fierce between San Francisco and Oakland.

Two days ago Finley said the A's definitely would be in Oakland through the 1974 season. Yesterday, when asked about Levy's prediction, Finley said, "This is not the first time this thing has been written, and it probably won't be the last. I have never talked to anyone in New Orleans. I have no intentions of moving my ball club, and this is all news to me."

Northeastern In Henley Cup Finals

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (UPI) — Northeastern University scored a classic one-length victory today over their American rivals from the University of Wisconsin to reach the Grand Challenge Cup final in the Henley Royal Regatta.

Saturday's final will pit Northeastern against the winner of the other semifinal later today between the University of Washington, the U.S. Western sprint champions, and the crack Russian crew from Trud Kolomna.

Northeastern opened up a three-quarter of a length lead by the half-way mark, staved off a challenge by Wisconsin, which cut the margin to half a length, and then forged ahead again near the finish.

Ernie Arlett, Northeastern's coach who was born in Henley and knows every inch of the River Thames course, said, "this was a head-on confrontation between America's two best crews, and we rose to the occasion. There could be no excuses by either crew, whichever lost today."

Turning to his crew, Arlett said, "A beautiful job. That was good old English style. If you row like that tomorrow the Grand is yours."

Arlett told newsmen: "We wre very anxious this morning. We want this one. The Russians? I think they are beatable."

Nine more Henley records were either broken or equalled this morning, following Thursday's unprecedented 27. Harvard set a new course record in the Ladies' Plate of six minutes 34 seconds. This was later equalled by Washington's Junior Varsity crew. Wisconsin's

Giants' Barr Is On Mound Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Giants return to Candlestick Park tonight, thankful that not every team in the National League has a Dave Concepcion.

Concepcion was five-for-five Thursday night as the Cincinnati Reds tipped the Giants 4-3. In so doing, the 28-year-old Venezuelan shortstop continued to display a mastery over the Giants that contrasts sharply with his record against the rest of the league. Concepcion's triple, double, three singles and two runs batted in gave him a .457 average against San Francisco for the current season, against a .222 lifetime major league average.

Victimized jointly by the Giant killer were pitchers Ron Bryant and Elias Sosa. Bryant, seeking his 14th victory of the year, carried a two-hit shutout into the sixth inning before the Reds tied it 3-3.

Sosa, who relieved in the seventh, was tagged with his second loss against two wins when in the bottom of the ninth he yielded two singles and his successor, Don McMahon gave up the fatal hit to Concepcion with two out.

The Giants had built up their 3-0 lead off Cincinnati starter Ross Grimsley on Bobby Bonds' 24th home run of the year in the fifth with one on and Chris Speier's solo blast in the sixth.

Grimsley was relieved in the eighth by Don Gullett, who became the beneficiary of Concepcion's rampage to improve his record to 9-7.

The Giants, who remained 3½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, who also lost, in the National League West race, face St. Louis tonight in the first of three. Jim Barr 6-7 will start for San Francisco against the Cardinals' Bob Gibson 7-8.

Padres Sweep Dodgers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Perhaps in preparation for their expected move to Washington next season, the San Diego Padres continued bugging the Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday night.

The lowly, cellar-dwelling Padres may be lame ducks in San Diego, but they flap their wings something fierce when it comes to playing the Dodgers.

With Steve Arlin pitching a two-hitter for his second consecutive shutout and Fred Kendall rapping a home run, the Padres completed a three-game sweep by a 2-0 score. It was their sixth triumph in 10 meetings with Los Angeles and extended the first-place Dodgers' losing streak to six games.

The series was reminiscent of a four-game September sweep that knocked the Dodgers out of the race in 1969. But despite the latest defeat, they didn't lose ground since their closest pursuers in the West Division-San Francisco and Houston — also lost. The Giants are 3½ games out, the Astros 5½ and the defending champion Reds, who trailed by 11 at the start of July, are only six back.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the San Francisco Giants 4-3, the Atlanta Braves trimmed the Houston Astros 7-4, the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Chicago Cubs 7-4, the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and the New York Mets beat the Montreal Expos 7-3.

Home runs by Dave Johnson, Darrell Evans and Mike Lum powered the Braves over the Astros. Johnson's homer, his 20th of the season, was a three-run blast in the second inning. Evans' homer was his 23rd. Tommie Agee and Doug Rader connected for the Astros.

Bill Robinson and Greg Luzinski homered and Steve Carlton weathered a late Chicago rally as the Phillies turned back the Cubs. Carlton was touched for 11 hits but finished what he started for the first time in six games. The left-hander, who won 27 games and the Cy Young award in 1972, boosted his record to 8-9.

Richie Hebner hit a two-run single and a game-winning homer to lead the Pirates past the Cardinals. Nelson Briles scattered seven hits and blanked the Cards after the first inning. Stargell, hit on the right elbow by a pitch in the first inning, left the game in the fifth when his arm stiffened. X-rays were negative and there was no word if he will miss any games.

Rusty Staub and Wayne Garret delivered two runs apiece with seventh inning singles as tye Mets rallied for five runs and snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Expos.

Tigers Most 'Professional' Club Miller Has Been With

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bob Miller has been with a lot of teams and when he says the Detroit Tigers are the most "professional" of all, it is time to listen.

"This is a team of professionals," Miller said Thursday night after the Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-5 in 11 innings for their 10th victory in 12 games. "This team plays professional baseball better than any team I've ever been with. They do the little things. I think when it gets down to the end that the little things and the veterans will make the difference."

Miller, a journeyman pitcher who has played with a major league record 10 clubs, is one of the veterans who figures to play an important role in the Tigers' quest for the American League East Division title. Miller, signed as a free agent late last month, posted his second victory since coming to the Tigers Thursday night when he allowed only one hit in 5 1-3 innings of relief.

"I've only been in four World Series, I want to be in one more," said Miller, who became a winner when designated hitter Gates Brown hit a two-run homer in the 11th inning.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Texas defeated Chicago 7-2, Kansas City outlasted Minnesota 12-10 and Boston topped New York 9-4.

The Tigers, who had tied the game at 5-5 in the sixth inning, pulled out of their contest with the Indians in the 11th when Bill Freehan, started his first game since being beaned eight days ago, singled and Brown unloaded his sixth homer of the season. Frank Howard also had a homer for the Tigers while John Ellis and Buddy Bell connected for Cleveland.

Ken Suarez' two-run single ignited a five-run fourth inning that sparked the Rangers to victory over the White Sox. Sonny Siebert worked seven innings and got credit for the win while Steve Stone was charged with the loss.

Cookie Rojas drove in five runs with a single and a homer to lead the Royals to victory over the Twins. John Mayberry also drove in a pair of runs for Kansas City, boosting his major league leading RBI total to 76. Paul Splittorff worked 6 2-3 innings to gain his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

Twins starter Joe Decker went 5⅓ innings and gave up eight runs and eight hits. The Petaluman took the loss to even his record to 3-3.

Carl Yastrzemski collected three hits, including his 11th homer, to lead the Red Sox to their eighth victory in 11 games with the Yankees this season. The loss cut the Yankees' American League East Division lead to 1 ½ games over the idle Baltimore Orioles. Bill Lee went the distance for Boston to gain his 10th victory in 13 decisions. Terra Linda's Lee scattered eight hits.

freshman eight also equalled the Thames Cup record of 6 minutes 33 seconds set by Princeton Thursday.

Washington beat Sport Nautique of France Thursday to reach the last four in the Grand Challenge, the premier event at Henley.

Washington got within three seconds of the outright record of 1:46 for the 700 yards marker and was only five seconds outside the half-way mark of 3:00, before losing rhythm.

Another dozen American entries came through eliminations to qualify for today's quarter-final and semi-final stages: Harvard, Washington and Wisconsin in the Ladies Plate; Tabor Academy, T.C. Williams High School, Groton School and St. Paul's Concord, N.H., in the Princess Elizabeth; North Eastern and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the Prince Philip Cup; Princeton and Wisconsin in the Thames Cup; and Potomac of Washington duo Mark Borchelt-Terry Adams in the Silver Goblets.

Harvard rowed to a record in its quarter-final win in the Ladies Plate competition, beating First and Third Trinity of Cambridge, England, by two-thirds of a length in 6 minutes 24 seconds.

The record of 6:26 was set only Thursday by the defending champions in the competition, SDR Laga of Holland.

The Shawnigan Lake School of Vancouver Island eight-oared crew, which includes Jeff Winslow of Tiburon and Scott Walker of Mill Valley, was defeated Thursday by St. Paul's, Concord, H.H. by one and one-half lengths.

Lee Scores 27 As Paradise Cagers Win

Dave Lee scored 27 points last night to lead Paradise Pharmacy to a 76-57 victory over Novato Parks and Recreation in a Drake Summer League adult division basketball game.

In other games, Cain's Tires defeated Henry Hicks Realtor, 75-53, and Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna and Claxon topped Fruit City Produce, 58-43.

Golfer Goalby Is 'Pleased With Game' In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Bob Goalby, buoyed by a seven-under par 65 that matched his best round of the year, led a field of par busters by one stroke into the second round of the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open today.

Goalby, who stands 78th on the current money list with a modest $18,936, popped in five birdies and two eagles to lead Buddy Allin, Larry Ziegler and Mike Morley who turned in 66s.

In all there were 64 subpar rounds Thursday and 19 other golfers equalled par 72 in their quest for the $26,000 top prize.

"I was pleased with my game today," Goalby said, "because I haven't been playing well enough—good enough, I guess, but not well enough to really score.

"I guess this is the first time I ever had two eagles in one round," he said, grinning over the memory of the sixth and eighth holes, both par fives.

He sank an 18-foot putt for the first eagle and another 18-footer for the second. For his birdie on the par four ninth hole Goalby droppd a 55-foot putt.

"I don't remember ever making one that long," he said. "The par fives are all reachable when there is no wind like today, but it could be different tomorrow."

He bogeyed the par three eighth hole and the par four 18th, blaming the latter on "trying to be too cute, too fancy."

Morley, who shot a 77 in the qualifying round played in strong winds was thankful for the gentle breezes Thursday and said "the greens are in excellent shape. His 66 was his lowest round of the year.

Allin, 18th on the money list with $62,766, said he liked the shorter Tripoli Country Club course where the GMO was held last year. He finished in a four-way tie for second in that one.

"But the conditions, the course and the weather were perfect today," he said. "That's what it takes to score well—a good course and those conditions."

With Goalby, Allin and Ziegler already in the clubhouse, Morley provided the most excitement by nearly taking over the lead. He was seven under and tied with Goalby going into the 18th fairway but knocked his second shot into the rough about 30 yards to the right of the green.

He chipped the ball over a ridge surrounding the green and nearly canned it for a bird and the lead, but it hit the pin and bounced away. Then he missed the four-foot putt and took a bogey to drop him into a tie with Allin and Ziegler.

Ziegler credited veteran tour pro Doug Ford for bringing his game back to life. He said Ford has been working with his swing since the GMO a year ago and the tutoring "has made all the difference in the world."

Ford shot a 72, one stroke more than defending champion Jim Colbert. Dave Stockton, who won the first GMO in 1968, was tied with seven others at 69 and Deane Beman, the 1970 champion, was in a 10-way tie at 68. Homero Blancas stood alone at 67. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 70.

FORMER BATTING CHAMPION

Private Services Held For Hall Of Famer 'Chick' Hafey

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Private services have been held here for Hall of Fame outfielder Charles "Chick" Hafey, who hit .317 during a 13-year career with St. Louis and Cincinnati.

He died in nearby Calistoga Monday at the age of 69. In recent years, he had been in the sheep and cattle business.

The bespectacled Hafey hit .349 to win the National League batting title in 1931 while playing for St. Louis.

But the Cardinals shipped him to Cincinnati in exchange for pitchers Harvey Hendrick and Benney Frey and an undisclosed amount of cash. Neither pitcher did much for the Cards while Hafey hit .344 and .303 the next two seasons at Cincinnati.

Hafey, who was born in Berkeley, Calif., on Feb. 12, 1904, broke into organized baseball in 1923 with Fort Smith, Ark., of the Western Association. He advanced to Houston of the Texas League in 1924 and compiled a .360 batting average. That earned him a major league shot with the Cardinals toward the end of the season.

St. Louis shipped him to Syracuse of the International League at the start of the 1925 season and then recalled him in time to appear in 93 games and compile a .302 average.

Hafey appeared in 23 World Series games with the Cardinals—in 1926, '28, '30 and '31—and set one record and tied two others. He hit five doubles in the 1930 series, which the Cards lost to the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-2, to set a classic record.

His five extra-base hits tied the record for a six-game series and Hafey tied another mark in the 1926 classic with the New York Yankees when he made six putouts in one game.

Hafey was survived by his widow, a son, brother and sister.

doubleheader against the Orioles.

Oakland's Catfish Hunter, 12-3, will go against Dave McNally, 6-10, in the opener while Vida Blue, 8-5, opposes Jim Palmer, 8-5, in the nightcap.

The A's, who have lost two of their last three games, still hold a 1½ game lead over Minnesota and Chicago in the American League West. The A's had Thursday off.

After Tuesday's 3-1 loss to the California Angels, centerfielder Reggie Jackson exchanged harsh words with the coaching staff.

Jackson, who leads the club in batting, homers and runs batted in, is hitless for 13 times at the plate.

Gene Tenace is 0-25 at bat and none of the other hitters are compensating very well for the pair.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Ups and Downs In Local Fishing

The striped bass fishery at The Brothers, Red Rock and the Richmond Bridge ship channel gives one something to think about. Last Friday, with just a few boats there the fishing was absolutely outstanding.

Many of you have heard of Keith Fraser and two friends taking nine bass weighing 158 pounds for an average of 17 plus pounds per fish.

Then on Saturday with many boats there fishing was just fair (Keith got only one), and on Sunday, fishing was generally bad. Again too many boats. On Monday, I gave it a go; no boats in a half hour, and I had five on at Red Rock, landing three. Frank Sue, who was also along, caught three in eight casts. He lost two others.

On Tuesday, Keith took Mike Imes, the bait shopkeeper out. Mike hooked eight or 10 in 45 minutes for the best fishing day he ever had, so he says. Of course the word was out that the fishing was hot, so on July 4th, everybody was out. I checked 26 boats with but two fish! By 10 a.m., most of the boats were going in. When it quieted down, with just one or two boats left in the area, fishing immediately picked up. Jerry DeRosa and Ed Tarrant rigged up two rods for the two kids, Tommie and Ken Tarrant (ages 5 and 7), just to let the kids fish. They had a ball. One of the kids, Tommie, caught three fish, one of which weighed 36¼ pounds. It was really a lunker.

Ken caught two, about 15 pounds each. Two other anglers, Ward Smith and his wife, also stuck it out. They took five big fish. I guess the answer is pretty simple. When all the boats converged on the hot spot with the motors really churning the water, the bait fish and the bass are forced to leave. Everyone was snagging everyone else's lines too; it was a fiasco! Then when things quieted down, the fish again came into the rips, and the above people scored rather easily.

The salmon fishing was good on the Fourth with Mickey Lauchenaur showing up around noon with a 36-pound salmon. Jim Kean, the I-J photographer was Johnny on the spot, so I hope you saw the pictures of the big bass and the big salmon in yesterday's I-J. The two fish were twins. I measured the bass, it was 45 inches long, and had a mouth big enough to swallow a truck! The bass was caught on a Jet-Tailed jig (much to the pleasure of Fraser), trolling in the deep water between Red Rock and the Richmond Bridge. Locki got his prize salmon trolling off Muir Beach. I believe there were five fishermen along with Locki, they all limited on salmon.

THE DEER SEASON opens for the archery hunters tomorrow at one-half hour before sunrise. The early archery season runs from Saturday through July 22. Bucks with forked horns or better are the legal game. The buck must be tagged as required.

Hunting arrows with a broad head type blade which will not pass through a hole seven-eighths inch in diameter must be used. No arrows with an explosive head may be used, and no bow may be used that will not cast a legal hunting arrow a horizontal distance of 130 yards. Crossbows are illegal, and archers hunting during any archery season may not possess a firearm while in the field engaged in archery hunting.

THE 1973-74 hunting regulation booklets are expected to be out by July 15 or so. Department of Fish and Game Director Ray Arnett said the state printing office attributed the delay to a huge backlog of legislative bills.

Incidentally, the 26 archery hunters of the state on the basis of tag returns last year took 343 deer. The top early season producing county was Mendocino with 33 bucks reported.

Gridders Dominate Selections

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation has named Northern California Athletes of the Year for the period 1965-1972 with football stars John Brodie, Daryle Lamonica, George Blanda and Jim Plunkett leading the way.

The foundation annually picks athletes from southern California but recently named a Northern California panel, composed of area sports editors, to make similar picks each year. Athletes had been picked from Northern California from 1890 through 1964.

Brodie, San Francisco 49ers quarterback, was named for 1965 but he had to share the award with the late golfer Tony Lema. Basketball star Rick Barry and Giant pitcher Gaylord Perry shared the 1966 award and in 1967 swimmer Claudia Kolb and Lamonica were co-winners.

Debbie Meyer, who was the star of the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City, took the award all alone in that year and Willie McCovey, the national league's MVP, won it in 1969.

Blanda and Plunkett, who led Stanford to the Rose Bowl, shared the 1970 award while Vida Blue, the American League's MVP and Cy Young winner, took honors for 1971. Olympic swimming champ Mark Spitz won in 1972.

Yarbrough Steals Softball Victory

Dan Yarbrough stole home with the winning run in the seventh inning to give the SMB Fliers a 6-5 victory over Denny's Francisco Mobile last night in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league game at Albert Field.

In other games, Round Table Pizza scored eight times in the final inning for a wild 20-19 victory over Ad Lite Neon; the Spinners tallied 11 runs in the first inning in a 17-5 victory over the Garlic Brothers; and Kentucky Fried Chicken defeated Perry's, score unavailable.

Celebrity Tennis Tourney Today

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The fifth annual Clint Eastwood Celebrity tennis Tournament starts here today and will continue through Sunday.

Show business figures such as Bill Cosby, Lloyd Bridges, Gene Hackman, George Kennedy, Cornel Wilde, George Peppard, Rod Steiger and Jonathan Winters will be joined by dozens of well-known ex-athletes and even some topflight tennis players.

Oregon Buddies

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Falcons quarterback Bob Berry and coach Norm Van Brocklin both played college football at Oregon.

Foreman Title Bout Sanction Seen

Combined AP & UPI

TOKYO — The Japan Boxing Commission (JBC) appeared to be optimistic today that the World Boxing Association (WBA) will reconsider and sanction a world heavyweight championship fight between champion George Foreman of Hayward and Joe Roman of Puerto Rico Sept. 1 in Tokyo.

Kotai Kikuchi, JBC exectuive secretary, told a news conference today that William Brennan, chairman of the WBA Championship Committee, had replied to JBC's request to sanction the Foreman-Roman fight as a world championship match. The message said: "Every consideration now being given your request sanction Foreman-Roman fight for title."

On June 29, Brennan in a statement in Richmond, Va. said that, after a lengthy telephone discussion with JBC president Bobby Lee in Honolulu, it was decided that the WBA would not sanction the Foreman-Roman fight as a world championship bout because Roman is not rated as one of the top 10 contenders by the WBA.

Football

SAN FRANCISCO — Headed by Houston's Bill Yeomans, a trio of coaches will meet in San Francisco Saturday to coordinate plans for the Dec. 29 Shrine East-West football game at Candlestick Park.

He'll be joined by assistants Jim Sweeney of Washington State and Dan Fambrought of Kansas and they'll also huddle with veteran football figure Pappy Waldorf, newly named as west player selection committee head.

HOUSTON — John Matuszak, a 6-8, 290-pound defensive tackle who was the No. 1 pick in the pro football draft this year, signed a hefty, four-year contract with the Houston Oilers Thursday and then hustled back to the college All-Star training camp in Chicago. Financial terms were not discloesed.

Golf

NEW YORK — Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino, who have nine tournament victories among them on the Professional Golfers Association tour this year, were named Thursday to the U.S. Ryder Cup team which will meet a British team in the biennial matches Sept. 20-22 at Muirfield, Scotland.

SPORT SHORTS

Baseball

TOKYO — The Akult Atoms of Japan's Central professional baseball league have been hard hit with Joe Pepitone, formerly of the New York Yankees and other major league clubs, who will be out of action for the next two weeks.

Pepitone arrived on June 19 at a reported investment of $250,000 by the Atoms, including trade money plus salary. But Atoms president Kunio Sato announced Thursday night that Pepitone was leaving today for two weeks to New York to attend to private matters.

Japanese sports writers speculated that Pepitone was returning to New York to decide on the custody of his six-year-old daughter with his divorced wife.

ARLINGTON, Tex. — The Texas Rangers shipped out two pitchers to their Spokane farm club Thursday, including Pete Broberg — their No. 1 draft choice in 1971 when they were known as the Washington Senators. Texas also sent down Don Stanhouse. Rangers officials said no one was immediately called up from the minors to fill the two places on the roster.

Reader Asks For A Perfect Stock

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you list some corporate bonds that are: rated A or better, pay 8 per cent to 9 per cent, sell at or below par, mature in 5-10 years and are noncallable? — J.H.

A. There are four Big Board-listed notes which come close to meeting your criteria, none however, returns 8 per cent-9 per cent currently. At the present time, yields on good quality short-term debt obligations have not reached that level. The four securities that most closely meet your specifications are: Honeywell Finance 7s of 1978, Phelps Dodge 7⅜s of 1978, Seagram, J. E. & Sons 7½s of 1978 and Westinghouse Credit 7.2s of 1978. All are rated A and AA, yield over 7 per cent currently and trade at or close to face value. In each case these notes are callable in their final year on 30 days notice at par plus interest or slightly above par value.

Q. My 76-year-old mother holds 1,600 shares of Genesco Inc. (NYSE) which were $36 when she inherited them at my father's death. This stock plus her Social Security is all she has to live on. With these shares now below $10 we are in a quandary as to whether she should sell and reinvest or go on holding. — A.D.

A. This apparel manufacturer/retailer is still struggling to turn operations around. After two profitable quarters, the 3-month period ended Apr. 30, 1973, resulted in a 5 cents-a-share deficit and Genesco expects a loss for 1973. In the past few months a Belgian plant was closed, interest held in an English company was sold and a spinning company was sold. The S. H. Kress chain, however, continues to be a drain on earnings. The 17 cents-a-share quarterly dividend has been passed recently. Shares have little investment appeal for a woman in your mother's position and should be sold.

New Ambassador

LONDON (AP) — Sir Terence Garvey has been named Britain's new ambassador to the Soviet Union. He succeeds Sir John Killick, who is returning here as deputy undersecretary of state in the Foreign Office.

NEW LOOK IN SAN RAFAEL

This is how Courthouse Square in downtown San Rafael will look when an eight-story office building and parking garage for 264 cars are completed next April. The $6 million development by McKeon Development of Sacramento will fill a void left since fire gutted the old courthouse on May 25, 1971. A Mediterranean fountain will highlight the landscaped area in front, facing Fourth Street. Exclusive leasing agent for the project is Coldwell, Banker & Co.

Market Opens Lower; Traders Confused Over Economic Picture

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices edged lower today in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange, reflecting the post holiday lull and the confusing economic picture at home and abroad.

The economic news has not been bright for investors, either. Many major banks today began raising their prime rates to 8 ¼ per cent, the second hike in this rate in a week, following a Federal Reserve board hike in the discount rate last Friday.

Investors were concerned also with weakness of the dollar abroad. It reached lows today on several European markets.

Prices declined in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. Syntex was the most active issue, off 1 ⅜ at 90 ¼ on 34,200 shares.

Oil issues moved in both directions. Superior oil gained 2. Natomas and Getty lost 1 ½ each and Atlantic Richfield 1.

Steels, motors, rails and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.
